Katanga Truce Announced

Esther Stays At Sea After Turning North

Northeast May Also Be Spared

NEW YORK (AP) — Hurricane Esther, ugly and skittish, sent fringe winds whistling into the Northeast Wednesday night. But the big storm stayed more than 100 miles at sea, sparing thus far the populous mainland the full fury of its might.

In midevening, the hurricane was reported 155 miles southeast of Cape May, N. J. It was expected to continue north, northeast for 12 to 18 hours, then turn slightly to the east, or seaward.

There was a chance Esther would blow itself out in the broad North Atlantic with no more than a glancing blow at outlying New England coastal areas. But weathermen warned against trusting its present relatively harmless course.

"Hurricane Esther is a capricious and extremely dangerous storm," the Weather Bureau warned.

No Lives Lost, Little Damage

There was no reported loss of life and no heavy damage as the storm swirled northward in the Atlantic from Cape Hatteras, advancing at about 15 m.p.h. Waves 33 feet high accompanied it.

In its wake, as the storm crisis eased, officials said advance precautions were the most extensive in history and that more people were evacuated than ever before along the coast. Hurricane Carla, which hit the Gulf Coast last week, had made the Eastern seaboard storm conscious.

The storm's indicated course would bring it close to Nantucket and Cape Cod in Massachusetts before noon Thursday. Thursday is the 23rd anniversary of New England's worst storm — a 1938 hurricane that cost 588 lives and caused $300 million in damage.

Gale winds and heavy rains rode ahead of Esther along a front 500 miles wide. They were due to hit southern New England during the night and early morning hours. The Weather Bureau advised residents there not to be caught asleep in their beds but to keep a storm watch throughout the night.

Eye 32 Miles Across

The Boston Weather Bureau suggested that no time be lost in evacuating coastal areas. Tides up to eight feet above normal were expected at Cape Cod.

A Navy hurricane plane landed at Idlewild Airport in midafternoon after a takeoff from Jacksonville, Fla., and a flight into the center of the storm. It reported the eye of the hurricane was 32 miles across.

"It is a good, solid hurricane," said CWO John Holman, chief meteorologist aboard the four-engine Super Constallation.

Winds at the center of the hurricane started out as high as 150 m.p.h. but at latest report had diminished to about 115 m.p.h.

UAW's GM Council Asks Strike Action

Executive Board Considers Request

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union General Motors Council — an advisory board to the union — voted Wednesday night to ask the UAW International Executive Board for authority to strike GM in support of local contract demands.

The surprise action came after a day in which GM and the UAW apparently reached agreement on national contract demands and made substantial progress on various local demands.

The negotiators spent all of Tuesday night working on rules for GM's 350,000 hourly employes.

National Settlement Accepted

Two weeks ago they agreed on wages and extra benefits, but UAW President Walter P. Reuther balked at making a complete settlement and pushed union demands for concessions in both national and local agreements on working conditions.

The GM council voted earlier to accept the GM-UAW national settlement.

The council then recessed until 10 a.m. Thursday while the UAW executive board went into session to decide what to do about the GM council action.

The council, while approving the basic terms of General Motors' national agreement with the UAW, supported local unions which still are on strike, or have unsettled issues with GM.

No Company Comment

No company comment was available immediately.

Reuther declined to speculate on whether the union would press for a continuance of the series of local strikes against GM.

The settlement reached Wednesday, climaxing negotiations that started June 28, was at first considered a back-to-work deal at the strike-bound GM plants. The strikes started a week ago Monday after the union authorized walkouts at plants lacking agreements on local demands. More than 250,0p0 workers were idled at the peak of the strike that paralyzed GM production.

Earlier, Reuther urged that the GM council approve the settlement.

Khrush Says Pope's Peace Plea Good Sign

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Wednesday Pope John XXIII's recent appeal for negotiations to settle East-West tensions was a good sign. He asked that Roman Catholic leaders like President Kennedy and German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer heed the Pope's "solemn warning."

"As a Communist and an atheist I do not believe in 'the Lord's will,'" Khrushchev said.

But he welcomed the Pope's special appeal and Mass for peace on Sept. 10 and declared he would do everything possible to avoid war.

Khrushchev's statement was a rare if not unprecedented reply to a pope of the Roman Catholic Church.

It was made to correspondents of the party organ Pravda and the government paper Izvestia who interviewed him about the Pope's plea.

The Pope had urged "the rulers of nations to face squarely the tremendous responsibilities they bear."

He asked for sincere negotiations to vindicate truth and justice so that "force shall not prevail."

The 79-year-old pontiff had added special drama to his plea for peace by recalling that other popes had made similar appeals on the eves of World Wars I and II.

"We make this appeal our own," Pope John added, "extending it once more to those who bear on their conscience the gravest weight of public and acknowledged responsibilities."

Kennedy Works On U.N. Speech

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy probably will go before the United Nations early next week in an effort to pump new hope and vitality into the troubled world body.

The chief executive, working on a major policy speech for delivery to the U. N. General Assembly, cancelled a news conference scheduled for Thursday to keep his schedule flexible.

But his speech plans could not be completed Wednesday because of changes in the General Assembly schedule caused by the death of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

Informed sources said Kennedy now would most likely make his appearance early next week, possibly Monday or Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the White House announced that Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson would head a group representing Kennedy at the Hammarskjold funeral in Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 29.

State Funeral Set For Hammarskjold

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — The funeral of Dag Hammarskjold will be held Sept. 29 in the ancient cathedral of Uppsala, Sweden, it was announced Wednesday.

The government said the state funeral — the first for a commoner here in 65 years — will be attended by Sweden's King Gustav Adolf and Queen Louise.

Priest Is Suspended As Magazine Editor

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)-The Archbishop of Buenos Aires has suspended a Catholic priest as editor of a magazine for having hinted that President Arturo Frondizi was "a Communist agent."

In a decree signed Wednesday by Antonio Cardinal Caggiano, the see admonished Father Julio Meinvielle, editor of the biweekly Presencia, for "inciting to rebellion." The publication's censor, Father Alberto Garcia Vieyra, also was admonished "for not having fulfilled his duties."

Kennedy Names Fowler To Head New Aid Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fowler Hamilton, 50, New York lawyer and Democrat, was chosen by President Kennedy Wednesday to head the new combined foreign aid agency.

Thus ended Kennedy's search for a man he feels can overhaul the whole U.S. foreign aid machinery and win strong support in Congress, which gave him a freer hand in helping needy nations.

Perhaps significantly, Hamilton's selection was announced on the eve of a meeting of Senate-House conferees to try to agree on how much foreign aid money Congress will vote this year. The administration is eager for approval of the $4.2 billion voted by the Senate last week—$533 million more than the House voted.

Democratic leaders in Congress were reported to have told Kennedy it would be wise to pick his aid chief while Congress is still in session rather than make a recess appointment to such a politically touchy post. The position is subject to Senate confirmation.

A few hours after the White House announced that Kennedy had chosen Hamilton his formal nomination was sent to the Senate.

There had been protests in Congress in recent weeks when it was rumored that the job would go to George D. Woods, New York financier. There were objections because Woods is chairman of the board of the First Boston Corp., which figured in the hot Dixon-Yates power controversy of several years ago.

Slim Elected As President Of U.N. Body

Assembly Remains Stymied In Search For Dag Successor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The U.N. General Assembly Wednesday unanimously elected Mongi Slim, dapper North African diplomat, as its president. But delegates remained frustrated in their search for even a temporary successor to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

Slim, a 5-foot-2 bachelor, has represented Tunisia here since it became a U.N. member in 1956. He is warmly regarded by the West as a moderate in the strong Asian-African bloc. He is the first African to be named an assembly president.

Slim, 53, was elected by a vote of 96-0 with one abstention. The balloting was secret but reliable sources said France—which had been at odds with Tunisia in the recent Bizerte crisis—voted for him. Israel was absent because of the Yom Kippur holiday, and one other delegation did not cast a ballot.

Slim Calls For Unanimity

Speaking in French and in a somber tone that matched the mood of the delegates, Slim expressed gratitude for the unanimity shown in his election.

Then, in apparent reference to the No. 1 problem of finding a replacement for Hammarskjold, Slim declared the United Nations requires unanimity "in order to face the painful and delicate position in which we find ourselves."

He appealed for a solution in keeping with the U.N. Charter "and of such a nature as to strengthen and guarantee its future for the greater good of mankind" and particularly the smaller nations who place their faith in the United Nations for keeping the peace.

He praised Hammarskjold as a shining example of loyalty, devotion and perseverance.

Slim has been mentioned as a possible candidate for an interim secretary-general, along with Ambassador Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, retiring president of the 15th assembly.

Burma's U Thant Mentioned

But Slim was reported reluctant to serve in a dual capacity, and Boland said he did not want to accept the post.

With those two out of the picture, speculation centered on Burma's Ambassador U Thant as a possible candidate. He has been prominent in the Asian-African group, and is well-liked by the West.

The West was reported determined to press for appointment of an interim secretary-general, even if it meant he would not be recognized by the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Union has made clear it will accept only the "troika" plan—the appointment of a three-man executive representing the West, Communist and neutral nations—each one with the power of veto.

Episcopal House Of Bishops Votes For Unity Talks

DETROIT (AP) — By a swift and stunningly unanimous vote, the Episcopal House of Bishops approved steps Wednesday seeking to unite a broad range of American churches.

Frank amazement greeted the action.

"I'm quite speechless," remarked the presiding bishop, the Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger of New York.

Others reacted similarly after the widely debated move went through without a floor clash or a dissenting voice.

It called for joining with the United Presbyterian Church in launching merger talks with the Methodist Church of Christ, the Polish National Catholic Church and possibly others.

The objective set forth is "an eventual united church, truly catholic, truly reformed and truly evangelical."

Action by the 195 Episcopal bishops still is subject to concurrence by the House of Deputies, the lay-clerical branch of the 3½ million-member churches' governing General Convention.

Emergency Session?

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, acting on an opposition Laborite request, agreed Wednesday to consider calling the British Parliament into emergency session in view of the "deteriorating" international situation.

Senators Will Probe Pentagon "Gag" Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee voted Wednesday to look into charges by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C. that the Pentagon has been muzzling anti-Communist speakers in the defense establishment.

The 15-1 vote followed what Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., called "the longest exercise in semantics I have ever heard."

The argument, Russell said, was over the phrase "study and investigate" in Thurmond's proposed resolution. The resolution was adopted after the wording was changed to "study and appraise."

"I thought it was a tempest in a teapot, and you can quote me on that," Russell told newsmen after the closed-door session.

As finally adopted, the resolution read this way: "Resolved: that a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Armed Services, to be appointed or designated by the chairman, be authorized and directed to study and appraise the use of military personnel and facilities to arouse the public to the menace of the cold war and to inform and educate armed services personnel on the nature and menace of the cold war, and that such subcommittee be vested with the full subpoena power of the Senate Committee on Armed Services."

Thurmond, who had said before the meeting that he would insist on a full-scale $75,000 investigation, told reporters he was satisfied with the outcome.

He has charged in a series of Senate speeches that the Defense Department "gags and muzzles" military personnel who try to speak out militantly against the dangers of communism.

Nomination Premature

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy Wednesday nominated Chicago lawyer James J. Saxon to be comptroller of the currency, then withdrew the nomination. Shortly afterward, the White House said Saxon will be named to the post on Nov. 15.

The present comptroller, Republican Ray H. Gidney, has been in a heated controversy with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother, over anti-trust policy dealing with bank mergers.

Gidney announced through the Treasury Department that he is resigning effective Nov. 15. He is serving a term which is not scheduled to expire until 1963.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, at the windup of a series of conflicting announcements, said Saxon will be given a recess appointment to finish out Gidney's term.

There had been talk among administration officials about persuading Gidney to resign, but until Wednesday he had given no indication he would do so.

U.S., Russia Unable To Agree On Lineup For Disarm Parley

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States and Russia announced Wednesday they were unable to agree on how general disarmament talks could be resumed or who would take part in them.

But they filed with the United Nations an agreed-upon set of aims for any future disarmament program should a way be found to get the talks started again.

A full-scale General Assembly debate is expected later in the current session, with the United States and Russia leaving it to the United Nations to decide who should take part in future talks and where they might be held.

Wednesday's situation came about because the General Assembly shelved its debate on disarmament last year and asked the United States and Russia to consult and submit a report this year on the composition of a new negotiating group. This body would replace the committee of 10 — which had five Communist and five Western countries on it. This committed was wrecked when the Soviet delegation walked out at Geneva on June 27, 1960.

John J. McCloy, President Kennedy's special disarmament adviser, and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorn held three series of talks — in Washington, Moscow and New York. They ended without agreement on what the lineup should be for any new negotiations.

Russia insisted upon the addition of five neutral powers to the unsuccessful Geneva talks. The United States rejected this, but offered four alternative proposals:

—Resumption of talks in the evenly-divided 10-nation committee.

—Addition of three neutralists to the 10-power committee to serve as moderators without acting as participating representatives in the talks.

—Addition of 10 more powers to the original group on the basis of geographic distribution. The United States suggested addition of Pakistan, India and Japan from Asia; Mexico, Brazil and Argentina from Latin America; the United Arab Republic, Nigeria and Tunisia from Africa and the Middle East; and Sweden from Europe.

—Return of the problem to the 99-nation U.N. Disarmament Commission.

Russia rejected the U.S. alternatives, but there was some doubt that it would flatly oppose resumption of talks in the U.N. commission.

De Gaulle Ends One-Man Rule At End Of Month

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle announced Wednesday night he has decided to give up his emergency dictatorial powers at the end of this month.

De Gaulle told a cabinet meeting of his decision. He had been under heavy criticism for continuing his one-man rule five months after he assumed the powers at the height of the April generals' revolt in Algiers.

The president made his announcement just before leaving for a four-day tour of farming areas. The government mobilized helicopters, mine-detector cars, and thousands of extra police to guard the president against a new assassination attempt during the trip.

Kennedy's Children Stay At Hyannis Port

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's two children were to stay at the Kennedy retreat on the shore of Cape Cod Wednesday night rather than take shelter from Hurricane Esther at Otis Air Force Base.

The White House had said earlier that consideration was being given to shifting the children but that it now is felt the hurricane will not strike enough of a blow in the Hyannis Port, Mass., area to make the homes of the Kennedy family unsafe.

Bob Kennedy Blasts D.C. Club's Race Policy, Quits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said Wednesday in resigning from a Washington club that he could not in good conscience remain a member because of its policy against Negroes as guests.

Kennedy made public a letter to the board of governors of the Metropolitan Club in which he said it was "inconceivable to me, in this day and age, that the privileges of this club which holds such a unique and peculiar position in the nation's capital would be denied to anyone merely because of his race."

Before release of the letter, a Justice Department spokesman, in response to an inquiry, had confirmed a story in the Boston Globe saying Kennedy had resigned from the club.

Kennedy's letter disclosed that he has been in correspondence with the club for the last six months regarding its policy on entertainment of guests.

"Although some of the language in your correspondence to my inquiry was equivocal, I had hoped that no one would be denied the facilities of the club merely because of his race," Kennedy wrote.

"It has now come to my attention that because several members brought a Negro to the club as a guest, a severe reprimand has been issued and no change is contemplated in the club's policy."

Kennedy said he did not challenge the right of members of any private group to select their fellow members.

"But I do not believe the action of your board reflects the feeling of the majority of the membership of the club. However, the board has acted and I must abide by that ruling."

Cease-Fire Is Reported By Tshombe

6-Point Agreement Halts Hostilities; U.N. Must Approve

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia, (AP)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga announced Wednesday night a provisional cease-fire effective at 12:01 a.m. Thursday, between his troops and United Nations forces battling in the secessionist Congo province.

Tshombe said the agreement is subject to affirmation at United Nations headquarters in New York.

It came two days after the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in a plane crash near this Katanga-U.N. peace negotiation site left the United Nations leaderless and in deep crisis.

Dag's Body Lies In State

Hammarskjold's body lay in in state in a church not far from the negotiations between Tshombe and a U.N. team headed by Mahmoud Khiari of Tunisia, acting for the secretary-general who died short of his goal of peace for the Congo.

The halt in hostilities was ordered after eight days of savage battles. They began when U.N. forces sought to take over the mineral-rich secessionist Katanga and return it to the less-prosperous central government in Leopoldville.

Tshombe said the agreement signed by himself and Khiari set forth six points:

1. An immediate cease-fire.

2. It is to start at one minute past midnight in all territories of Katanga.

3. A mixed commission of four men is to be set up without delay with full powers to control the cease-fire agreement and to seek means of settling relations between the United Nations and the Katanga authorities. This includes an agreement on the location of U.N. troops in Katanga.

Troop Movements Blamed

4. No troop movements are to be permitted for reinforcing garrisons or positions. This includes the movement of ammunition and weapons of all kinds including aircraft and tanks.

5. Both sides retain their freedom to make their own arrangements for their supplies of food.

6. An exchange of prisoners under control of the four-man commission appointed under Point 3.

Tshombe, smiling broadly, announced the cease-fire in the Ndola airport manager's office where for two days he had been negotiating with Khiari, U.N. chief of civil operations in the Congo.

Tshombe said the agreement will continue while both sides wait for New York's approval.

The talks had snagged earlier on Tshombe's reiteration of a condition previously rejected by the United Nations—the immediate withdrawal of U.N. troops from his province.

Russia Sets Off Big Atom Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union tested another big nuclear weapon in the atmosphere Wednesday. It was the 14th blast since the Soviet Union resumed testing Sept. 1.

In announcing the explosion in the area of the arctic island of Novaya Zemlya, the Atomic Energy Commission said it "had a yield on the order of a megaton" —one million tons of TNT.

In Tokyo, Japan's Central Meteorological Agency put the force at several megatons, and said shocks from the blast were detected from 20 to 50 minutes. The Japanese agency put the time of the blast about 8 a.m. Eastern Standard Time.

The United States has announced two underground blasts since it followed the Soviet lead in resuming atomic tests.

Reds Begin Evacuating Berlin Border Residents

BERLIN (AP)—A shabby little Teddy bear perched on top of a big heap of furniture Communist moving men were piling into Onkenstrasse, right off Harzerstrasse Wednesday.

Nearby stood two girls, 5 or 6 years old. They stared at the men bringing their family's belongings out.

Pistol-toting officers of the Red people's police, some with tear gas grenades in their hands, made occasional threatening moves toward reporters getting close to the Iron Curtain that has cut through Berlin since Aug. 13.

It was mass evacuation day in Harzerstrasse — "M-E Day" a West Berlin officer called it.

The Communists, it seemed, were starting to create a dead, uninhabited belt along the 25 miles of prison wall through Berlin.

Everything north of Harzerstrasse is Communist-ruled East Berlin. The street and sidewalks are in West Berlin. Five days after bringing down the Iron Curtain, Communist workmen nailed shut every door leading into the street and bricked off all first-floor apartment windows.

But many East Berliners managed to flee by sliding to freedom on ropes from higher apartments. Nine jumped from windows Tuesday night.

People living in the first floor had already been removed, not only in Harzerstrasse but in all East Berlin buildings facing the border of West Berlin.

Such a situation prevailed in Waldemarstrasse, like Harzerstrasse in the American sector, and in Bernauerstrasse in the French sector of the city.

Last week, Washington informants disclosed Communist plans to evacuate East Berliners all along the border line. Now, it seemed, the East German Reds were carrying out that plan.

Hospital Patient Dies In Oxygen Tent Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—A hospital patient was injured fatally Wednesday when his oxygen tent exploded, apparently after he had struck a match to light a cigarette.

The patient, Eugene Veney, 47, was being treated in General Hospital for hypertension and uremia. A nurse told police she had just left him after a routine check and was walking down a hall when she heard a noise and saw a puff of smoke from his room.

Veney came out of the room with his hospital gown in flames, she said. The nurse beat out the flames but the patient collapsed and died.

Witnesses Link Jackson Family Slaying Cases

SPOTSYLVANIA, Va. (AP) — Four witnesses who linked the murder of an Apple Grove, Va., truck driver to the kidnap-slaying of his wife and a daughter in Maryland testified Wednesday in the trial of Melvin Davis Rees Jr. over strong defense objections.

Joseph L. Savage Jr., one of Rees' court-appointed attorneys, argued unsuccessfully they were "just prepared to defend one case."

As each witness was called to the stand, he reiterated defense objections to their testimony. In each case, Judge John D. Butzner Jr. overruled him on the ground that their testimony established a pattern of "time, circumstances and location."

Rees, 32, a tall, lean, dark-haired jazz musician, is charged in Spotsvylvania County Circuit Court with the murder of Carroll Vernon Jackson Jr. The victim, his wife and two small daughters, were not seen alive after they set out for their Louisa County, Va., farm home on a wintry night early in 1959.

The defendant already is under life sentence imposed in a Baltimore federal court for the kidnap-murders of Jackson's wife, Mildred, 27, and daughter Susan, 5.

Introduction of evidence identifying Rees with that case would strengthen the prosecution's claim that the defendant killed Jackson.

Nomination Endorsed

Powerless To Intervene For Fasters, Tawes Says

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. J. Millard Tawes said Wednesday he was powerless to intervene on behalf of three Philadelphia Negroes being held in Cecil County Jail in Elkton, Md., on trespass charges.

The Maryland governor informed some two dozen persons who protested the jailing that it also would be "inappropriate" to call a special session of the legislature to pass a law against racial discrimination. He said the General Assembly will convene in regular session in February.

Several groups, wrote to Tawes and asked him to intervene in the case of Wallace F. Nelson, his wife Juanita and a friend Mrs. Rose Robinson, who have been fasting since their arrests Sept. 6 for trespassing at a restaurant on U. S. 40.

The governor said the Maryland Constitution, in separating the executive and judicial branches of the state government, "clearly prohibits" him from interfering with the Cecil County Circuit Court.

He said he believed that the legislation requested by some of the letter writers would be introduced at the regular session of the General Assembly next year. He added such legislation probably would be considered in "orderly fashion" at that time.

"Although I am concerned to see that justice prevails at all times," Tawes said, "I believe that the redress you seek (in the trespass cases) must be purchased through the proper channels of the judiciary."

Fisher Body Local, GM In Agreement

BALTIMORE (AP)—Strike negotiators announced Wednesday a working agreement between the Fisher Body Co.'s Baltimore plant and Local 239 of the United Auto Workers.

The 1,500 Fisher Body workers and an additional 1,500 workers at the Chevrolet plant went on strike Sept. 11 when the UAW struck General Motors.

Mayor Outlines Hagerstown's New Look Plan

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — A broad plan for sprucing up Hagerstown with new parks and new thoroughfares, remodeling of the public square with trees and walkways, and construction of new city parking facilities was advanced Wednesday by Mayor Winslow Burhans.

The plan was presented to Hagerstown's newly-appointed Urban Renewal Committee, along with a request that the group immediately employ a planning consultant to direct the project.

The city was given urban renewal authority by the 1961 General Assembly, and funds to finance preliminary planning and the hiring of a consultant already are part of the municipal budget.

The mayor's immediate proposal called for additional parking lots in the downtown area, remodeling of the public square, new bridges and streets to connect the various quadrants of the city, and a study of additional park needs.

Burhans said the city should be able to obtain federal assistance if a workable plan is presented to the new Area Redevelopment Commission.

Esther Causes Some Flooding At Ocean City

OCEAN CITY, Md. (AP) — An angry sea, fanned by Hurricane Esther, sent waves battering against the boardwalk here Wednesday and caused some flooding in low lying streets.

It appeared, however, that Ocean City would be spared the full brunt of Esther's fury. The storm was scheduled to pass this resort community far at sea.

A late afternoon high tide resulted in flooding in the downtown area between 12th and 16th streets on both Baltimore and Philadelphia avenues. About 10 inches of water was slowing traffic.

The battering action of the waves caused slight damage to the boardwalk which was torn up in spots and was pulled from the wall of at least one motel in the 12th-16th street area, the most severely hit by flooding.

Ocean City authorities said, however, the situation was not serious and residents of the community appeared to be sitting this one out.

Rain fell here most of the day and the Coast Guard reported the wind mostly was steady at 25-30 mph at 4 p. m.

The Red Cross said about one dozen evacuees had taken shelter in the Ocean City evacuation center at Buckingham School in Berlin, Md. The evacuees were reported to be from Harrisburg, Pa. out of the state. They left Ocean City upon hearing of the approaching storm.

Four Men Escape Worcester Jail

SNOW HILL, Md. (AP)—State Police on hurricane standby duty joined local officers Wednesday in searching for four men who escaped from the Worcester County Jail.

The four men, all charged with breaking and entering, escaped after overpowering their guard, a trusty.

The escapees were identified as Frederick W. Briggerman, 24, of Baltimore; William J. Smith, 18, of Willards, Md.; James C. Jarvis, 23, of Berlin and Blaine W. Adkins, 17, of Selbyville, Del.

Fickle Esther Spares State Coastal Areas

By The Associated Press

Maryland apparently escaped the full force of Hurricane Esther, but coastal areas were buffeted by its fringe winds Wednesday.

The storm was expected to pass more than 70 miles off the Delmarva coast during the afternoon and evening. It was rumbling offshore on a course which forecasters said would take it close to southeastern New England Thursday morning.

Buttoned-up Marylanders were able to relax some after the fickle storm changed directions to the northeast Wednesday.

But northeast winds were expected to increase and reach gusts up to gale strength Wednesday night in some coastal areas of the state.

Winds began picking up Wednesday morning to speeds of 30 miles an hour along the coast and on Chesapeake Bay.

The fringe winds brought along some rain and high tides.

Heavy rains were forecast for the Eastern Shore, but both winds and rain diminished with distance from the storm center.

Clearing skies and warming temperatures were predicted for Thursday.

Marylanders went all out in preparing for the worst as the storm approached.

Evacuations of islands in Chesapeake Bay began Tuesday. More than 1,000 persons were ferried from Tangier Island, Smith Island, Hoopers Island and other offshore communities to mainland shelters.

Buildings all along the Shore and in Southern Maryland were designated for housing refuges.

The Red Cross, the armed services, the National Guard, Civil Defense agencies and police departments stood by as Gov. Tawes put the state on a "maximum alert."

Schools were closed in Wicomico, Somerset and Dorchester counties both as a guarantee to the youngsters' safety and to provide buildings for refugees if needed.

Residents of Ocean City, closest Maryland point to the storm center, stood ready to evacuate to Berlin, some 10 miles inland. The storm probably attracted as many persons to the resort as it caused to leave. Newsmen, photographers and some of the just plain curious moved in as the storm approached.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP) — A fisherman who hooked a $25,000 rockfish must give $6,230 of the prize money to the government, a federal judge has ruled.

The fisherman, longshoreman William Simmons, landed Diamond Jim III in 1958 during a fishing derby sponsored by a local brewery. He claimed in court it was all in a day's fishing—he was not out to land the prize fish.

But U. S. District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen said the $25,000 was not a gift but a prize for complying with contest rules. As such, it is taxable income.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Rush-hour traffic may have Baltimore's traffic experts up in the air this fall.

The Department of Transit and Traffic has entered an agreement with a helicopter firm for free use of the aircraft during rush-hour periods. The Board of Estimates must still approve it.

In return, the helicopter company would have the right to seek commercial sponsorship of the airborne traffic reports over a local radio station.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Friendship International Airport set another record last month in passenger traffic and cargo handling.

Passenger traffic soared 66 per cent over figures for August 1960, air express shipments rose 32 per cent and air freight increased 47 per cent.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Yom Kippur, the most solemn day in the Hebrew calendar, was observed by more than 80,000 Marylanders of Jewish faith Wednesday.

The observance began at sundown Tuesday and ended at sundown Wednesday. It climaxed a 10-day period of prayer that began with Rosh Hashana, celebtion of the Jewish New Year 5755.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — William S. Sartorius, a former teacher in the Baltimore County school system, was named Wednesday as the county's superintendent of schools.

Sartorius, a native of Pocomoke City, will leave his current post as assistant superintendent in administration for the State Department of Education to accept the county job.

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Fire destroyed a railroad storage shed Wednesday and a loaded freight car was scorched.

The fire occurred along a siding of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, about 150 yards south of the Laurel station.

Firemen from five fire companies were unable to save the one-story wooden shed but did prevent any real damage to the box car and its load of canned milk.

Negro Hunger Strikers Will Stand Trial Today

ELKTON, Md. (AP)—J. Albert Roney Jr., Cecil County state's attorney, says three Negro defendants staging a hunger strike will be brought to trial Thursday.

The defendants, all residents of Philadelphia, were arrested Sept. 6 on trespass charges after they were refused service at the Bar-H Chuckhouse on U. S. 40 near North East, Md.

They have refused to walk into court to stand trial, and were ordered earlier this week to undergo mental examinations at Crownsville State Hospital. Except for their stay at Crownsville, they have been held at Cecil County Jail here.

Roney was asked Wednesday whether authorities planned to carry the defendants into court, but would say only "we intend to bring them into court for trial."

Trial is scheduled at 10 a.m. (EDT) in Cecil County Circuit Court.

Dr. Charles S. Ward, superintendent of the Negro mental hospital at Crownsville, said he found the defendants in good mental health and capable of standing trial.

The case was moved to circuit court after the defendants refused to walk from their cells in the Elkton jail to a hearing in Magistrate's Court. All three have refused to post $50 bail, and have declined legal assistance.

The defendants are Wallace F. Nelson, a salesman for a New York manufacturer, his wife, Juanita, and Mrs. Rose Robinson. A fourth defendant was released after paying a $50 fine, and has filed an appeal.

The Nelsons and Mrs. Robinson declined meals for the 14th day Wednesday, and Dr. Ward said their health would be impaired seriously if the hunger strike continued much longer. The hospital superintendent said they would not be force-fed unless they weakened to the point of being "incompetent to judge what was best for them."

28 Cars Of PRR Freight Derail

ODENTON, Md. (AP)—Pennsylvania Railroad officials said a broken rail caused the derailment of 28 cars of a freight train near here early Wednesday.

No one was hurt in the derailment which temporarily blocked all three tracks about midway between Washington and Baltimore.

Through trains from New York to Washington were re-routed with delays up to two hours, and bus service was substituted for the Baltimore to Washington runs as the tracks were being cleared.

The 55-car freight train was bound from the Potomac yard in Alexandria, Va., to Bayview yard in Baltimore. It derailed at 5:11 a. m.

Some of the cars were stacked two or three on top of each other. They were scattered over the tracks for a quarter of a mile. The electric locomotive remained on its track.

"God help us if that had been a passenger train," said Cpt. Thomas Ezell of the Anne Arundel County police.

Goldberg To Keynote Forty-Plus Dinner

BALTIMORE (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg will speak here Oct. 11 on the employment problems of persons 40 years of age or older.

Goldberg will be keynote speaker at the Governor's Dinner on Forty-Plus Employment. An audience of 400 Maryland business, industry and labor leaders is expected.

The aim of the dinner is to persuade private employers to eliminate age as a hiring consideration except where it has a bearing on ability.

Gov. Tawes is expected to point out that such an employment policy is in line with that followed by the state, which has eliminated age as a hiring factor except for State Police.

Non-Farm Job Placements Rise

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Maryland State Employment Service placed more persons in non-farm jobs last month than in any August since 1953, employment officials said Wednesday.

Stephen C. Cromwell, executive director of the Department of Employment Security, said last month's non-farm placement figure was up 1,380—or 21 per cent—over August 1960.

He said the greatest increases were in professional, technical, managerial and clerical positions.

Non-farm placements last month totalled 7,933. Farm placements declined to 20,793, a drop of 42 per cent from July and a drop of 15 per cent from August 1960.

Hotel Symbol Of Progress To Indonesia

By RUSSELL E. DYBVIK

JAKARTA (UPI)—Towering 14 stories above the traditional red tile roofs of Jakarta, the eight million dollar Hotel Indonesia is a symbol of progress to underdeveloped Indonesia.

Some 2,200 workers wielding hammers, chisels, acetylene torches and massive 100-foot-high derricks are working at a feverish pace to complete Indonesia's largest building for a gala April 1, 1962, opening.

The hotel—built by the Indonesian government with Japanese credits—will be the nation's first modern hotel of world standards.

More than 860 guests will find lodging in 432 rooms, many of which will be air-conditioned.

One wing of the hotel will be 14 floors high—topped by a large restaurant serving European and Indonesian foods. Another wing will be eight stories in height.

Fourteen luxury suites will be available for visiting dignitaries, according to hotel president-director Iskandar Iskak.

"If all goes well, actual construction work on the hotel will be finished by the end of February," Iskak said.

"It will take the whole month of March to make hotel personnel familiar with conditions in the hotel and prepare them for real business. Full operation will start on April 1."

Some 850 employes, including 20 young Indonesians who have begun specialized training programs in the United States, will be directed by Intercontinental Hotels Corporation for the first five years of operation. It is a subsidiary of Pan American Airways.

Each room will have its own balcony overlooking the city, Iskak explained. The few rooms that are not air-conditioned will utilize cross-ventilation, he said.

Three other restaurants and snack bars will be housed in the hotel, in addition to the roof-top dining area. Large meeting halls will offer quarters for international and national conventions. Special sound systems will provide music to each room, should the guest desire, Iskak said. A large swimming pool will be completed in time for the grand opening in April.

Rates will range from $10 to $14 per day. All guests will be required to pay in foreign currency—a new practice which is expected to allow for adequate import of specialty foods and mechanical spare parts for the hotel's operation, Iskak said.

There are some villages in New Mexico which are more than 400 years old.

About 60 Democratic senators attended the informal affair. Kennedy will entertain House Democrats at a similar affair Thursday.

Fallout Hits Japan

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan told the Soviet Union Wednesday the first signs of danger already have appeared in Japan as result of the Russians' testing of nuclear bombs in their current series.

A note dispatched to the Kremlin said Japan "reserved the right to claim indemnity for all damage which may be suffered by the Japanese government and people.

Tunisia's Slim Firm Believer In U.N. And Its Ideals

By United Press International

Mongi Slim is only five-feet, two-inches tall, but he stands tall in the opinion of world diplomats. The 52-year-old Tunisian leader is considered one of the most capable diplomats in the international organization.

Slim is an eloquent and convincing speaker, and works most effectively behind the scenes. He is trusted by his colleagues, which enables him to act as a mediator between rival blocs on sticky issues.

His diplomatic ability has earned him several important U. N. assignments and he likely will play a very important role in the United Nations' future maneuvering to fill the gap left by the death of Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

The dapper bachelor believes sincerely in the United Nations and its ideals, and deplores extremists who try to disrupt the organization. He believes the world parliament has an important role to play in bringing law into the jungle of international politics, and feels this can best be done through give-and-take negotiations.

Once a fiery nationalist, Slim headed his country's mission to the United Nations until earlier this year when he left the post to assume a wider responsibility in Tunisia's foreign affairs. Tunisia was admitted to the United Nations in 1956.

He returned to U. N. headquarters in New York this summer to present Tunisia's case in its dispute with France over the Bizerte military base. He was a special representative, a designation he retained for the opening of the 16th General Assembly.

Slim was born in Tunis to a politically-backgrounded upper class family. He was educated in France where he acquired the polish of French diplomacy.

Two subsequent confinements in French jails as a political prisoner failed to dull the polish, and he became a leading negotiator for his country's independence from France. He ranks second only to Tunisia's President Habib Bourguiba as a national hero.

He served briefly as Minister of the Interior and Minister of State before going to the United Nations. He also served as Tunisian ambassador to Washington and Ottawa. He is considered friendly to the west.

Slim is an excellent cook and has a continental manner. He drinks coffee in large quantities, and there is a story that Slim's state of mind can be judged by his coffee consumption. The edgier he is, the more coffee he drinks.

News Commentary

By PATRICIA CONNOR

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The nation's capital finds itself astride a two-headed horse every congressional session. And there's no way the city can lead either half to water, let alone make it drink.

Washington depends on Congress for approving its budget, levying its taxes, appropriating its funds, changing its laws, and even letting its citizens stand up at a bar to drink.

The chairmen of the Senate and House district committees, Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., and Rep. John McMillan, D-S.C., hold the reins on each horse's head. They often find themselves purring off in different directions.

District officials like to stress that as the nation's capital the city has special expenses and responsibilities in keeping an efficient, attractive and well-policed domain. This argument works sometimes.

Senators and congressmen have expressed shock at the city crime rate, which has climbed every month for 13 months. They have fretted that people, especially women, aren't safe on the streets at night. They agreed to give the city 51 more policemen.

But when district officials pushed further and blamed the juvenile court's case backlog for abetting crime with its long delays in hearing cases while juveniles are free to commit more crimes, the House committee turned deaf ears.

Rep. James Davis, D-Ga., long opposed to the juvenile court concept, sponsored a bill which would have ended juvenile court's autonomy. The Senate committee came out strongly for adding two judges to the court's overworked one-man bench.

The result: No court bill at all this session and the backlong growing.

The Senate and House found themselves farthest apart on D.C. finances. At one point Rep. McMillan delivered a sort of ultimatum that he wouldn't even discuss nine revenue raising measures the Senate voted for the district.

The House passed a higher sales tax and McMillan said that was all the city would get to finance its record budget, which also was embroiled in a Senate-House fight. City officials and residents held their breath hoping for money to finance essential programs and still not leave the city in the red.

As Congress hurried toward adjournment, with several D.C. bills left in limbo for the session, a conference committee ironed out budget differences.

But the budget still needed the sales tax bill to keep it in the black. After much high-level bickering between senators and congressmen, and some behind-the-scenes phone calls, McMillan agreed to a conference to iron out the tax bill.

Victory was pre-conceded to the House philosophy.

Meantime Washington residents are sitting tight, hoping for a last-minute gallop to enact an elections law. This would set up machinery for the district's first vote in national elections, under the new 23rd Amendment to the Constitution.

Peace Talks Possible

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev said Wednesday the Soviet government "is convinced there is every possibility of solving the question of a German peace settlement by means of talks," the official news agency Tass reported.

Brezhnev spoke at a Cuban-Soviet friendship meeting attended by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and visiting Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos.

"As has been repeatedly pointed out by Comrade Khrushchev," Brezhnev said, according to Tass, "the Soviet government is convinced there is every possiblity of solving the problem of a German peace settlement by means of talks, if only the Western powers are guided by the interests of strengthening peace and take account of the real situation which has come into being in Rueope and Germany."

There are almost 58 million sandwiches consumed daily in the United States.

Steel Imports Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Steel imports increased in July to the highest level in 15 months, the Commerce Department reported Wednesday.

The department said steel exports also combed in July but sales abroad for the first seven months of this year were down 40 per cent compared with the same period in 1960.

Imports of steel products in July rose to 300,000 tons—23,000 tons above the June level and 124,000 tons higher than the year-earlier figure.

Border Mission

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) —An 80-man army team has moved into the rugged Amapa jungle of northern Brazil in an effort to mark the nation's border with French Guiana. Several earlier attempts were blocked by fierce Indian tribes.

Nation's Gross National Product Hits Record Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The gross national product (GNP) hit a record annual rate of $526 billion during the third quarter of this year, Commerce Secretary Luther H. Hodges reported Tuesday.

The GNP—value of all goods and services produced in the nation—is regarded as a key indicator of economic health.

Hodges told a news conference that the preliminary estimates showed that the GNP has climbed by $25 billion from the recession low of $500.8 billion recorded during the opening months of 1961.

It rose to a record annual rate of $516.1 billion in the second quarter and Hodges predicted it would climb to $540 billion by the end of this year.

The secretary also disclosed statistics which showed rising corporate profits, increasing personal income and higher sales and new orders for manufacturers of durable goods.

Bridge Winners Announced

Norman Taylor and John R. Wilkinson topped the field in the Potomac Valey Bridge Club game, Tuesday evening at the Woman's Civic Club house with a score of 86 plus. Six and one half tables were in play with the average score North-South, 70.

Other North-South winners were Mrs. Ray Goetz, Mrs. Fred Puderbaugh, 81 plus; Miss Kathryn Laughlin and Mrs. Madeline Mewshaw, 70.

Edgar J. Dawson and Mrs. Joseph Knepp won first place East-West with a score of 70 plus. The average was 60. Second place were Theodore Gray, Robert Stafford, 69 plus; Mrs. James Rexroad, Mrs. Gerard Everstine, 59.

Tonight the monthly Master Point game of the Western Maryland Bridge Association will be played at the Cumberland Country Club.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Young Men's Republican Club will meet at 8 tonight in the club rooms, with Mrs. Betty Lloyd presiding.

Supper Scheduled For Oct. 28

The annual fall tea of the Catholic Women's Club, Keyser, was held Monday evening in St. Mary's hall with Mrs. Donna Barbarito as hostesses. She was assisted by Mrs. Angela Cessare, Mrs. Mary Lou Armstrong, Mrs. Irene Twigg, and Mrs. Helen Alt.

The evening's opened and closed with prayer by Rev. William D. McGonigle, who urged the women to receive Communion as a group on the first Sunday of each month.

Plans also were discussed for various functions during the coming year, including a spaghetti supper tentatively scheduled for October 28. Mrs. Mary Handlan was appointed ticket chairman; Mrs. Mary Sagal, chairman of the kitchen committee; and Mrs. Catherine Martina, head of the dining room committee. Mrs. Margaret Stanislawczyk presided at the meeting.

BPW Club Receives Reports

The Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club welcomed eight new members, received routine reports and adopted the program for the year at the first dinner meeting, Tuesday evening. It was held at the Central YMCA.

Miss Mary Jo Logsdon presided and introduced the board of directors. Routine reports were given by Mrs. Ellen McKenzie, membership chairman; Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard, Business Women's Week; Miss Edith Schard, national convention and Mrs. Ethel Northcraft, on the state board meeting to be held October 7.

The revised budget and the 1961-62 program outline was presented by Mrs. Thelma Swartzwelder, program co-ordinator. Both were approved. She also gave the inspirational talk. Miss Pritchard gave the history of the collect and Miss Scharf, the invocation.

New members are Mrs. Freda Massara, a transfer from Wilmington, Del.; Miss Verna Bowling, Mrs. Helen Swires, Mrs. Eloise Shaffer, Mrs. Marie Dellinger, Miss Catherine Greeves, Mrs. Eleanor Florie and Miss Patricia Zellner.

Continentals Auxiliary To Be Organized Sept. 27

An organizational meeting to form a ladies auxiliary to the Cumberland Continentals will be held September 27 at 7:30 p. m. in the City Hall auditorium.

The proposed society is open to all historically, or civic minded women, single or married, 18 or older, who are interested in dressing in the 1860-1865 period styles to assist and participate in Civil War Centennial commemorations and re-enactments between now and June 1965.

The organizational meeting is being called to coordinate and assist private efforts and to set up a systematic approach for re-enactments in local and semi-local events.

It is requested that those women who will attend and those who can not attend but are interested in helping will bring or send dress patterns, books, pictures, etc., of the wide variety of Civil War period dress styles.

Further information about the ladies auxiliary can be obtained from Mrs. Fritz Haselberger at PA 4-6674 or Mrs. Gerald O. Breighner at PA 2-1957.

Mizpah Class Has Election

Officers were appointed at the meeting of the Mizpah Class of First Baptist Church, held at the home of Mrs. James Ruppert, Bedford Road. They are Mrs. Donald Long, teacher; Mrs. James Athey, assistant; Mrs. Henry Humphreys, president; Mrs. O. J. Mortzfeldt, Mrs. Wilma Alderton, vice presidents; Mrs. Stanley Bennett, secretary; Mrs. Russell Wentling, assistant; Miss Elizabeth McCullough, treasurer and Miss Marie Williams, personal service.

A donation of $5 was voted for the scholarship fund during the business session, conducted by Mrs. Mortzfeldt. Miss Williams reported on sending sympathy and sick cards.

Plans were made for the October meeting, in the from of a Halloween party at the home of Mrs. Stanley Bennett, 324 Bedford Street. Recognition will be made for the funniest and prettiest costumes.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. James Athey on the topic, "God Takes Care of Our Needs," and "Perils of Parenthood." Mrs. Elwood Weber and Mrs. H. R. Matlick offered prayer. Roll call was answered with Scripture verses. Refreshments were served.

Other members attending were Mrs. Alderton, Mrs. Long, Mrs. Paul Bell, Mrs. Lucy Clark, Mrs. Stanley Bennett, Mrs. Paul Shanski, Mrs. Harvey Wilson, Mrs. Woodrow Hamilton, Mrs. Athey and Mrs. Stanley Morris. Guests were Mrs. Edith Bowman, Donald Long, O. J. Mortzfeldt, Stanley Morris, Elwood Weber, James Ruppert, Linda Spence and Sherry Hamilton.

Personals

Mrs. Wilfred E. Gallinek, the former Miss Mary Patricia Clancey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Clancey, 617 St. Mary's Avenue, will leave New York's Idlewild Airport Sunday to join her husband, Capt. Gallinek. He is stationed with the armed forces at the 121st Evacuation Hospital in Ascom, Korea.

Grover C. Sensabaugh, 415 Fayette Street is a medical patient in Memorial Hospital.

To Discuss Study Class

Officers of the WSCS will meet at the home of Mrs. Martha Grindle, St. Mary's Terrace, at 7:30 tonight. Plans will be discussed for a study of the Women of the Bible at the regular meetings of the Woman's Society of Christian Service at the First Methodist church, Lonaconing.

Omicron Socials Outlined

Giving the social report for Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Miss Patricia Golden outlined activities for the year at the meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Bette Adam, Bedford Street. She asked for pledges and announced the theme will be "Wings of Love," which is in keeping with the international theme, "Live with Wings."

October 17 will be the model meeting at the home of Miss Golden, 22 Marion Street. A dessert bridge will be held October 24, at the home of Mrs. Anna Kurtz, LaVale.

In November, besides the pledge ritual on the second, there is to be a bowling party; in December the annual Christmas party; attending the Ice Capades in Washington and having a sleigh ride were suggested for January; a party for husbands around Valentine Day; and supporting local activities as a social by attending the Elk's minstrel and a performance of the Algonquin Players in a group during March. April is to be a progressive dinner and on the 26th, the Ritual of Jewels. The mother-daughter banquet will be in May.

Miss Patricia Emerick conducted the meeting and finished scheduling hostesses for the meetings and program assignments. She also reported on the City Council executive meeting. The group discussed "Guest Night" in October and the project for the year. The chapter agreed to assist the Allegany County Medical Society polio immunization program this fall, as it did in the spring.

It also was agreed to assist with "Poison Control Week." Dr. Gina Glick asked the chapter to distribute pamphlets during October. A letter from the Woman's Civic Club concerning the Girl Scouts was read.

A program on "Nature's Landscape" was presented by Mrs. Adam, who illustrated it with several oil paintings by Mrs. Helen Nesbitt. A social hour concluded the evening and refreshments were served. Others present were Mrs. Helen Arthur, Mrs. Virginia Shircliff, Mrs. Kurtz and Mrs. Martha VanHorn.

Social Chart

A special meeting of the Soroptimist Club has been called by Mrs. Blanche Mantel for 7:30 tomorrow evening at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

A chicken barbecue will be held Saturday at 5 at the picnic grounds of Davis Memorial Church, Oldtown Road. Entertainment will feature music and skits.

A rummage sale will be held by Class 4 B Junior Girls in the recreation room of St. Mark's United Church of Christ, Park and Harrison streets, Friday from 5 until 9 and Saturday 10 until 2.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 ♦	1 ♠
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Eight of ♠

In today's hand, declarer placed his adversaries in a position where they had to do his work for him.

East chose to overcall North's opening diamond bid with one spade. South had a normal free bid of one no trump, and North offered an orthodox raise to game.

West opened the eight of spades. This was permitted to ride to declarer's king, and he promptly led over to the king of diamonds. East won the trick and dislodged declarer's last spade stopper by returning the queen. South saw no reason to hold up, since the bidding and play made it clear that West could have no more spades, and one of the small spades might be used to better advantage later in the play. Declarer led a diamond to dummy's jack and then played the six back to the ten in his hand, observing that East followed suit with the last diamond held by the defenders.

If East were given the lead at this point he could do no more than cash three spade tricks, after which he would be compelled to lead either a club or a heart. Declarer cautiously refrained from cashing the fourth diamond, since he wished to guard against being pressed for discards himself. The five of spades put East in as dummy let go the jack of hearts. He was able to cash two more spade tricks, on which dummy discarded a club and a diamond while declarer let go the nine of hearts. Now any return by East would prove fatal to the defense.

Instead of trying to guess the location of the queen of clubs for his ninth trick or trusting to anything so improbable as winning the heart finesse, declarer had enlisted the services of the opposition to develop the ninth trick.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Your Facial Expression Tells Others About You

How much of her beauty budget of time and money should any woman devote to making the best of her facial features? Enough and as much as needed!

But the single, most important thing a woman can do to make her face attractive to behold is absolutely free. What is it? Simply make a frequent check of her facial expression!

For even the prettiest carriage, nicest dress, smoothest make-up, suavest voice and most charming thought are nullified by a facial expression that either falsely or truthfully gives others the impression that you are haughty, grouchy, worried, sullen or bored!

Test your facial expression before your mirror on these points today:

1. Do you squint or frown when talking or concentrating? If so, you're in danger of being thought grouchy.

2. Is your smile too wide or too timid? Better get it into line, or you'll be judged insincere.

3. Do you bite or purse your lips when talking, thinking, or listening? Nervousness attracts no admirers!

4. Do you wiggle your nose at any time? It's a habit that's associated with disdain for others.

5. Do you habitually raise or twitch your eyebrows? Haughtiness is attributed to those who do.

If you find your facial expression guilty of any of these unpleasant mannerisms, conquer the self-consciousness that causes them. Eradicate the squint and the frown; train your smile to attractive contours; make your lips and nose relax; let the light of appreciation and understanding shine from your eyes.

Substitute good habits for unpleasant ones, and then check regularly to make sure that your facial expressions reveal exactly what you want them to!

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Seven years ago I married a man whose wife died in childbirth. His little girl, Linda, was two years old at the time of our marriage. Tom's sister took the baby when she was a week old. He pays $50 a month for her keep.

Now Tom and I have two daughters of our own. When Linda comes to visit us weekends it's an endless battle. She's sloppy, ill-mannered, and tries to boss my two. The girl is very much overweight and sneaks candy and pop behind my back.

Linda says she wants to live with us all the time because our house is prettier than her aunt's, there are better things to eat here, and more to do in our neighborhood. I'm afraid she'll cause nothing but trouble in our family and I don't want her. Tom says it's up to me.

Of course I feel guilty but what shall I do? — TINA

DEAR TINA: This unfortunate child needs love and understanding. She would get neither in your home.

You are not sufficiently wise nor mature to accept the challenge of coping with Linda. I suggest that you make an appointment with an expert on problem children. When you gain some insight into Linda's emotional needs you may then reconsider.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I work in one of the country's finest hotels. Something has been bugging me and maybe you can come up with the answer.

Why do certain people think it's all right to throw away thousands of dollars on the crap tables, stay in the fanciest suites, eat and drink like royalty, and then, when it comes to tipping, cheap out like nobody's business?

Some big shots give a bellhop four bits for handling two 60-pound bags and then flip the doorman two bits for parking a Lincoln Continental. In the dining room their colors really show up. They are all the time trying to pick a fight with the waiter so they can use it as an excuse to leave a small tip — or none at all. What makes rich people so crummy? — LAS VEGAS

DEAR VEGAS: Rich people aren't any crummier than anyone else. Generosity, stinginess, kindness and meanness are all human qualities which can show up in any person, regardless of the size of the bankroll.

To label all people of means as cheap and abusive is an unfair and inaccurate generalization.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The woman who comes to clean for me three days a week is about 40 years of age. She has a nice figure but she has a homely face. Yesterday she showed up in a two-piece strapless outfit, midriff style. When she kneeled over to wipe up the kitchen floor she almost lost the top of her outfit. My husband thought this was very amusing.

I have lived in this country only two years. Is it proper to tell a woman who comes to clean what kind of dresses to wear? My husband says no. What do you say? — E. K.

DEAR E. K.: Not only is it proper, but in this case it seems urgent. Tell her a simple housedress will do. Some cleaning women wear uniforms. It might be nice if you bought her one.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The only people who can wear pants without a foundation garment are men, says Gloria Crimmins, fashion director of the Lovable Brassiere Co. She advises some type of panty girdle for the average woman wearing slacks or shorts. For heavy thighs the long john type — reaching almost to the knees — is suggested.

The shape of pants for the holiday hearthside is split between tapered and slighty wider cuts by one pants maker (Jack Winter). Tops in the collection are long and relaxed.

When a car is this beautiful, you know Pontiac built it!

Who else but the builder of those front-running Wide-Track Pontiacs could bring out a car so freshly and finely styled! It's longer, with a crisp, low silhouette. It's distinctly Pontiac, with a new twin-scoop grille you can recognize a block away. Powered by the potent Trophy V-8, with from 215 to 348 h.p. Beautifully poised on Pontiac's famous Wide-Track stance. And a turning radius cut as much as 3½ feet to make handling easier. The result is a pride-pleasing new version of America's Number One Road Car. Let a 1962 Pontiac show you.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—The state of the nation's teeth is somewhat holey.

Dental sleuths figure that 180 million Americans share at least 700 million unfilled cavities. The average: four cavities per person.

The gap between what is practiced and what is preached in dental health is highlighted in "Progress in Health Services," the monthly statistical bulletin of the Health Information Foundation.

The American Council on Education's Commission on the survey of dentistry in the United States recently suggested the following reasons for the disparity:

—The inability of many to pay for comprehensive dental care.

—The low priority set on dental care by many families.

—The reluctance of dentists to increase their productivity.

—The shortage and poor distribution in the number of practicing dentists.

The foundation's report cited studies on children's primary teeth indicating "a striking need for dental care."

In one study, for example, the average child at age six was found to have about six primary teeth that were either decayed, filled or in need of extraction.

By age 15, the average child in the study had about 10 decayed permanent teeth.

The report showed further that a majority of adults from middle age on show serious periodontal — gum — diseases which might have been prevented by regular dental care.

"What makes such figures especially disturbing," said George Bugbee, the foundation's president, "is that most people know that a dentist should be consulted regularly."

"Eighty-per cent of a sample of the public has said that people should visit a dentist for periodic examination and treatment. Yet only about 40 per cent of the population actually is seen by dentists during a year."

Bugbee said public apathy about adequate dental care can be explained only on the basis that people do not feel that such care is important.

Rocket Society To Hear Talk

The Allegheny Section of the American Rocket Society will hold a dinner-meeting today at 6 p. m., at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

A. F. Giacco, a former employe of the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Rocket Center, W. Va., will speak at Thursday's affair.

Giacco, of the Hercules Powder Company, Wilmington, Del., will speak on "The Business Of Space."

The speaker, a graduate of VPI, worked at ABL from January 1946 until March of 1948.

He joined the Hercules Company following his graduation when he earned his degree in chemical engineering and has had 20 years of experience in ordance and missile industries, having held numerous responsibility positions in the production and development of explosives units.

Three Global Church Meets Lend Impetus To Unity Quest

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Churches of the world are rallying their scattered forces today in the biggest and most far-reaching quest for unity in Christian annals.

They're re-establishing ties that have been broken for centuries. They're hailing each other as "brothers," after long estrangement. They're conceding mutual offenses of the past, and voicing regret.

In a turbulent age swept by hostile ideologies, they're acting to forge closer bonds of faith.

The movement has criss-crossed the old tripartite shape of Christendom—Protestant, Roman Catholic and Eastern Orthodox — toppling one partition after another.

Over-all, the development is know as the ecumenical movement—meaning the churches of the whole inhabited earth. It takes its mandate from Christ's prayer as recorded in John 17:21—"That they all may be one."

The gathering reconciliation has already produced a number of precedent-breaking changes, and it is a prime concern of a series of forthcoming global Christian conclaves of unsurpassed scope.

They are:

The Pan-Orthodox Council Sept. 25 to Oct. 1, on the island of Rhodes, Greece, bringing together representatives of all Orthodox church jurisdictions, with about 200 million members. It is the first such meeting in 30 years.

The General Assembly of the World Council of Churches Nov. 18 to Dec. 6 in New Delhi, India, including delegates of 176 Orthodox, Anglican, Old Catholic and Protestant denominations with 250 million members in 52 countries, the most widely encompassing Christian gathering ever.

The Second Vatican Council, now tentatively scheduled for late 1962, convening the cardinals, archbishops, bishops and other ecclesiastical superiors of the 500-million-member Roman Catholic Church throughout the world. It will be the first such meeting in 92 years, and the biggest of its kind.

Protestant and Orthodox observers are expected to be invited. For the first time, the Roman Catholic Church also is sending official observers to the Protestant and Orthodox assemblies.

At all of the meetings, among many other subjects, church reunion will be a major consideration.

No one expects the time-crusted divisions to be quickly overcome. Formidable obstacles remain. There are misgivings in many quarters, and questions as to the form eventual reunion should take, and the means for progressing toward it.

Nevertheless, the march is on in that direction. Some churchmen have called it the greatest development in religious history since the 16th Century Reformation when Protestants broke with Rome.

Protestant and Orthodox leaders pioneered the movement, culminating in the formation of the World Council in 1948. Only lately has Rome shown an interest in it, applauding it for creating a "climate for unity."

It is a cause for "holy joy in the Lord," says Pope John XXIII, whose own comradely overtures to other Christians has marked him as the "Pope of Unity."

His church, which in the past had stood apart from ecumenical affairs, this year set up a new secretariat of unity, providing for the first time a channel of official contacts with other church bodies.

The World Council welcomed the step. It has been called the "Magna Carta" for a new scope of inter-church relations.

Precedent-breaking, too, were the recent calls on the Pope by top Protestant and Orthodox leaders. And for the first time since Orthodoxy split with Rome 900 years ago, regular communication have resumed.

Compromising on basic doctrine is rejected all around. The theory is that by sharing insights and experience, all may benefit, shed their extraneous and divisive human foibles, and come to fuller comprehension of undivided truths in Christ.

In view of the deep theological and ecclesiastical differences, complete reunion is seen as only a dim, remote possibility. Yet that is the aim, and for Orthodox and Protestant groups in many ways, it already is a working fact.

It has reversed the tide of Christian history.

DERAILMENT — These four cars were among 28 derailed yesterday as a northbound Pennsylvania Railroad freight train jumped the tracks near Odenton, Md., about midway between Washington and Baltimore. The wreckage temporarily blocked all three tracks through the area. No one was injured. (AP Photofax)

New woven fabrics for use in shoes and handbags will make them lighter weight, longer wearing and less expensive, the developer (Chicopee Mills Inc.) reports. One of the new fabrics is made of woven sheer nylon monofilament. Another uses synthetic leather strips to produce a realistic hand-woven appearance. The third fabric ismade of straw-type Rovanna yarn.

NEW YORK (AP)—International crises continue to rock the boat in the stock market but they are not getting all of the blame for the unimpressive performance.

The death of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold sent the market into a spin. However, a brokerage house, Bache & Co., said the stage has been set for unfavorable action by four months of technical deterioration.

It appears likely, the firm adds, that a number of individual issues will move ahead from time to time within the poor technical atmosphere but there are no signs of important support for the general list.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. says the market's behavior is causing increasing concern.

He contends that perhaps the biggest single factor is the continued weakness of the former glamor stocks "into which so many usually active traders are frozen with large losses." He also believes that sentiment has been hurt by President Kennedy's stand against an increase in steel prices.

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone & Co. feels that the setback is the normal result of the public's cautiousness about international uncertainties, inflationary prospects, the auto-labor deadlock, and the government's attitude toward big business, which he says may signify credit tightening and even price controls later on.

McClellan Moves To Bar Interstate Transit Strikes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., introduced legislation Tuesday to prohibit paralyzing interstate transportation strikes by a widening of the antitrust laws.

He contended that James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union and Harry Bridges' West Coast longshoremen were forming an alliance that challenges the power of the government and threatens to bring the rest of organized labor to its knees, using transport strikes as their weapon.

McClellan forecast public hearings on the bill would begin in January.

A key provision in the bill would amend the Sherman antitrust law to make it unlawful for any labor union to act in concert with any other labor group to strike against an employer engaged in interstate transportation. It proposes punishments up to $50,000 fine and a year in jail for violations.

Bride And 38 Guests Suffer Food Poisonin

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—The bride and 39 guests at a proxy wedding at Tavira in southern Portugal suffered food poisoning Monday night by something in the wedding cake. Other guests were saved by a romantic superstition.

Police said a number of girls at the party saved their cake to put under their pillow. Tradition says this brings dreams of a future husband.

Bar Group To Propose Successor To Judge Fraley

Recommendation of candidates for the successor to the late Judge Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County Circuit Court will be made at a meeting of the judicial appointments committee of the Maryland Bar Association.

Procedure for the nomination of judgeships was suggested by Gov. J. Millard Tawes to the Maryland Bar Association.

The statewide committee, of which Earl E. Manges of this city is a member, will meet with the Fourth Circuit committee on judicial appointments.

After this is over, a list will be furnished to Gov. Tawes for his consideration.

Judge Fraley, who died last Wednesday, first took office by appointment by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin in 1954 under a law passed by the 1953 General Assembly giving Garrett County a resident judge.

That bill, incidentally, cut Allegany County's traditional number of judges to one upon the retirement of Chief Judge George Henderson in 1957.

The resident Garrett County judge bill made no provision for increasing the number of judges in the Fourth Circuit from three to four.

With Chief Judge Morgan Harris serving here, Judge Fraley at Oakland, and Judge D. Kenneth McLaughlin at Hagerstown, one was dropped upon Judge Henderson's retirement.

However, a bill was passed last year to increase the number of judges in the Fourth Circuit from three to four, and then Judge W. Earle Cobey was appointed to fill this position.

On the Fourth Circuit judicial appointment committee is S. R. Pagenhardt of Oakland and Omar T. Kaylor of Hagerstown.

The Garrett County Bar Association, it was learned yesterday, will support unanimously the candidacies of both Stuart F. Hamill Jr., and Walter W. Dawson.

Hamill is the only Democratic lawyer in Garrett County and stands a good chance of getting the appointment.

Dawson, a Republican, is 68 years of age, and if named, could only serve until he was 70 years when the mandatory judicial retirement rule goes into effect.

Judicial appointments are made until the next general election, but by law they must not be for less than one year or not more than three.

In Dawson's case, he would be able to serve one year, but due to the mandatory retirement at age 70 would probably not run to serve only a few months.

Dawson, a graduate of the University of Maryland, was admitted to the bar in 1931, the same year Judge Fraley began his practice.

Hamill, a graduate of the University of Virginia, was admitted to the bar on September 4, 1941 and was drafted into the Army on September 5, 1941. He served two tours of duty overseas with the 87th Infantry Regiment, first as a non-commissioned officer and then as an officer. He returned to Oakland to resume the practice of law with his father, Stuart F. Hamill Sr., who died in June.

Resident Draws 41st Term In County Jail

A Cumberland man, Eugene Oldaker, yesterday was sentenced to his 41st time in the Allegany County jail.

Oldaker, whose offenses have been of a minor nature such as drunk and disorderly, was given 30 days yesterday in Circuit Court by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris on an appeal from Trial Magistrates Court.

Charges of loitering and carrying a concealed weapon were dismissed by the state. Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt had sentenced Oldaker in the lower court.

The concealed weapon was described by police as a small sharpened piece of metal from a cup which Oldaker habitually carried.

In addition to the 30 days, Judge Harris imposed a fine of $50 on Oldaker and he will have to serve an additional 30 days in default of the fine. The total of 60 days in jail will run from August 16 because Oldaker has been in jail since that time as he was unable to post bond pending the appeal.

A California department store (Macy's) noted that its San Rafael branch sold more falsies than the store's main San Francisco unit. Women's Wear Daily reports a check showed pilots from nearby Hamilton Air Force Base were buying the falsies to wear inside their helmets as ear protectors.

Anna Ella Carroll

No. 59 Anna Ella Carroll, a member of the Maryland family that numbered Charles Carroll, signer of the Declaration of Independence, and Rt. Rev. John Carroll, first Roman Catholic bishop within the original 13 states, had a practical education in Border State politics and a fortune from her father, one of Maryland's governors. She achieved influence in Maryland councils comparable to that of Margaret Brent's in colonial days, and exerted it in 1861 to keep her home state from joining the Secession states.

Her efforts in Maryland, which included authorship and mass distribution of pamphlets defending Lincoln's course, brought her to the attention of the president. He subsequently aided and abetted her activities and appears to have accepted her advice in some matters. One biographer, S. E. Blackwell, writing in Miss Carroll's lifetime and apparently with her approval, entitled her "The Great Unrecognized Member of Lincoln's Cabinet." Support is given this claim in an authoritative modern study "Anna Ella Carroll and Abraham Lincoln," by Marjorie and Sydney Greenbie. It indicates she put forward the Fort Donelson-Fort Henry campaign that was the beginning of the end for Confederate control of the vital Mississippi Valley network of rivers.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

CUBAN APPEAL

NEW YORK (UPI) — Episcopalians across the nation have been asked to help resettle refugees from Fidel Castro's Cuba.

The Rev. Alexander Jurisson, executive secretary of the denomination's Division of World Relief and Inter-Church aid, said until now the Diocese of South Florida has carried the burden of aid to Cuban refugees.

He said all other dioceses could help by making housing and employment available to Cubans and by sending donations to the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief.

Johnson Heights PTA Will Meet This Evening

The first meeting of the school year for the Parent-Teacher Association of Johnson Heights School will be held today at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

Plans for the program were formulated at a recent executive meeting, at which Neil Smith, new president, presided. Paul Arbogast, principal, explained the various committees that will be needed during the school year.

Officers, besides Smith, include Vernon Wharton, vice president; Shirley Goss, recording secretary; Frank Wilson, treasurer, and Kate Dailey, corresponding secretary.

Committee chairmen are William Taylor, program; Mrs. Wallace Ullery, homeroom mothers; Mrs. Phyllis Smith, health; John A. Hamilton, ways and means; Mrs. C. William Dailey, publicity; Mrs. Josephine Robey, parent-child study; Vernon Wharton, membership and playground; John E. Trost, safety, and Mrs. Mary E. Courtney, library.

Smith said homeroom visitation will be held at 7:30 p. m., with the business session for 8 p. m. during which the teachers will be introduced. The budget for the year will be presented for approval, the president said.

Refreshments will be served by the sixth grade mothers, headed by Mrs. Mary Goss.

Orientation Assemblies Set At Allegany

The Student Council of Allegany High School will culminate its orientation program for new students with the presentation of the school's activity program at two assemblies this morning in the school auditorium.

Presiding at the assemblies will be Charles Butt, Student Council president who will introduce "The Panorama of Our School." Opening remarks will be made by Dr. W. Ardell Haines, principal.

The junior high dramatic club, S. I. D., will present a play, "The Chocolate Chip Cookie Mystery." Sandy Serf and Mark Baker will sing a novelty number, "My Gal's A Corker."

Skits will be presented by the Alcohi Mirror and Allegewi staffs to acquaint the new students with the school paper and yearbook.

Bernard Miles will sing "I Believe," and Gordon Haines will play a selection on the piano. John Balch, Hi-Y president, and Carole Kemp, Tri-Hi-Y president, will discuss activities of their organizations.

The Student Council will participate by informing the students of their organization, activities and services.

Other scholastic, sports and service organizations will be named, and their officers and sponsors introduced.

Music will be provided by a dance combo, under the direction of Robert Laird. Members include Jack Sellers, Teryl Chaney, William Aumiller, William Robinson and Ray Richardson.

As a part of the orientation for new students, the Student Council had "welcome" posters in the halls. The council sponsored a "tag day," when new students wore name tags with each class distinguished by the color.

The orientation program has been directed by Miss Orpha-Bonita Pritchard, council advisor, with the senate of the council serving as the steering committee.

In addition to Butt, members of the senate are Thomas Miller, vice president; Karen Holbrook, secretary; Sonja Keyser, treasurer, and Arvella Alt, Roger James, Patricia Shipley and Dorothy Long, senators.

Hercules Completes Covington Plant

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Hercules Powder Co. Wednesday announced completion of a new plant in Covington, Va., designed to produce over 12 million pounds of polypropylene fiber annually.

Forest B. Evans, manager of the fiber development department, said the plant could be expanded if the market demands for the product increase.

U. S. Rejects Offer For Old Prison

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The federal government has balked at turning over its abandoned federal prison at Mill Point, Pocahontas County, to West Virginia for a youth correctional facility.

State Public Institutions Commissioner Joseph D. Hodgson disclosed Wednesday that he had been trying to acquire the site for a second forest camp — like the one near Davis

However, he said he was informed the federal government is studying the possibility of using Mill Point for "defense purposes." Just what this might be was not explained.

Society To Organize Girls Group

A committee to organize a Senior World Friendship Group of Girls was appointed at the meeting of the WSCS of Melvin Methodist Church. Mrs. Vincent DelaGrange conducted the meeting Wednesday evening at the church. She appointed Mrs. Helen Northcraft chairman with Mrs. Jane Fier, Mrs. Blanche Speir, Mrs. Opal Cooper and Mrs. Eleanor DelaGrange serving with her. The group is for girls from 18 to 25.

Plans were formulated for the UNICEF party, to be held October 27. Eugene Streett was named director. Also, it was decided to make and sell apple butter next month, and plans were completed for a soup and pie sale September 21, beginning at noon.

Routine reports were given and announcements made. The Susannah Wesley Zone meeting will be held October 12 at Oldtown. Mrs. Fier distributed fliers and asked the group to extend invitations to prospective members and be ready to explain its purpose.

Discussing the study class on "Land of Eldorado," Mrs. Mary Zais said it would be September 14 at 7:30. There will be meetings for four consecutive Thursdays closing with a South American fiesta. Slides will be shown and reports given on the various South American countries. Anyone interested in the class is invited to attend.

Mrs. Robert Streett announced the meeting of the prayer group September 20, when prayer cards will be renewed. She also announced the Week of Prayer and Self Denial for October 25.

A fall pilgrimage to the Asbury Home on September 28 was announced by Mrs. Dorothy McDonald. The group decided to send a gift of $10 to the home, and a cash donation of $8 was sent to the Business Girls Lodge in Baltimore.

Discussing the seminar at Centre Street church, September 20, Mrs. Gladys May said it would begin at 3 p.m. and literature will be for sale. Mrs. Dorothy Harper read an open letter from Adlai Stevenson acknowledging letters received from Methodist women in support of the United Nations. Mrs. Virginia Golden reported 85 sunshine cards sent and 46 calls made. It was announced that the kitchen cupboards are ready for installation.

Devotions were conducted by Mrs. McDonald, on "The Spirit Is Lord," the group sang, "Breathe on Me, Breath of God." Mrs. Streett read the Scripture. Mrs. Speir spoke on "How to Present the Holy Spirit," and Mrs. Fier, "The Importance of the Holy Spirit." During the social hour, refreshments were served by Mrs. Opal Cooper and Mrs. Stanley Goodrich.

Donation Made

Dorcas Bible Class met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Hafer, who was in charge of devotions and gave a reading and prayer from the Upper Room. She also read a poem "I Know Something Good About You." A donation was given to the Ellerslie community Nativity display. Plans were made to make and sell vegetable soup and bake goods, October 5 in the Ellerslie Methodist Church hall. Ten members were present. Refreshments were served with flowers centering the table.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Not every girl has her 'phone ring in the middle of the night in far off London and hear a voice from Hollywood say, "Dolores? This is Frank Sinatra and I'd like very much to have you as the lead with me in "The Manchurian Candidate' if you're free in January." But this happened to Dolores Hart who has never met Frank—and at first thought it was a gag. Not at those prices!

Dolores, who is in London making "The Inspector" is a pretty thrilled girl about the way her career is going.

She's also being sought for the role opposite Marlon Brando in "The Ugly American."—not bad for a young actress.

"Manchurian Candidate" is the picture Frank is making with TV and movie director John Frankenheimer for his independent company.

The U. S. Air Force will benefit by Jimmy Stewart's agreement to do the narrating on "X-15" for Frank Sinatra's Essex Productions. Essex will donate a part of the film's profits to a U. S. Air Force benefit to be designated by the office of the Secretary of the Air Force.

Jimmy, who is a brigadier general in the Air Force Reserve, is taking time out from the filming of "The Man Who Shot Liberty Balance," to make this special narration. The stars of "X-15" are for the most part young people and this patriotic film will premiere appropriately in Washington, D.C., in the fall.

The world is certainly Frankie Avalon's oyster, if you'll pardon the cliche. For his birthday a few days ago he received a new '62 Cadillac from Bob Marucucci.

"That's because," said Bob over the telephone while I was talking to Frankie, "he just gave me a five-year contract negotiated himself, and he's so loyal." Frankie is wanted by Columbia for a role in "The Interns" which Bob Cohn is producing. They're right in the midst of negotiations.

Sunday Ed Wynne gave Frankie a surprise birthday party at the Hawryn Club, and all the musicians in town were there to say "Happy Birthday."

With reports that the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas had all its signs blown down and the roof torn off several rooms, I wondered what was happening to Shirley MacLaine and her husband Steve Parker. They were getting ready to open "Philippine Festival" tomorrow night, for which Steve brought over a whole Philippine troupe—so I telephoned Shirley.

She said, "I'm attending a surprise wedding-anniversary party—it's our seventh. We were told to go down to the new dining room because there was some news about our props having gone stray. Steve said, 'now what!' so we hurried to the Sultan Room, and there was a beautiful party arranged for us.

"We've been rehearsing in candle light because all the lights went out with the bad storm, but we open as scheduled on Friday, Sept. 22."

I've never heard the Communists summed up more succinctly than producer Arthur Hoffe put it when he was asked if it didn't pose a problem switching the locale of Judy Holliday's movie, "The Great Sebastians" from Czechoslovakia of 1948 to Chicago of the roaring 20's.

"No problem," answered Arthur, "to have set the story in Czechoslovakia in '48 would have involved Communists in the plot. Moving it to Chicago in the 20's involves gangsters—which is about the same thing."

I know of no one who can tell a story as the one I am about to relate, as well as Efrem Zimbalist, and get a kick out of it. When Efrem was vacationing in Mexico he noticed a couple of women following him. Sensing they were tourists, he tried to avoid them because he wanted to get away from everything connected with his work.

Finally they caught up with him when he was gazing in a shop window, and one of the girls said, "we are trying to settle an argument, mister. You are George Nader, aren't you?" Efrem didn't say whether he signed Nader's name or his own, when they asked for his autograph.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random';

One of our town's most popular women, Nancy Sinatra Sr., entered Cedars of Ledanon Hospital for minor surgery. Her friends will be glad to know she will be out in a day or so.

Since "Fanny," Leslie Caron's price for pictures comes high. She made a deal to co-star with David Niven in "Act of Mercy," and her price, in American dollars is close to $300,000.

Bill Tallman, the D.A. on "Perry Mason" series, and Peggy Flannigan, a local girl, hope to marry next month when her divorce is final.

Just the two of them, Irene Dunne and her daughter Mary Frances Shinnick, had dinner at the Oyster House to celebrate Mary Frances' birthday. Mary Frances' husband was out of town.

Looked like George Raft was talking serious business with a group of men at the Tallyho. Could be he's planning a movie.

CUF Classified Unit Off To Good Start

A kick-off breakfast meeting of the Cumberland Area Classified Division, County United Fund, opened on an auspicious note yesterday with the announcement that an employe group already has met its 1961 goal.

John E. Geare and Kenton B. Farrell, division co-chairmen, informed the captains and representatives that the six-member employe group of the Cumberland Office Supply Company has signed up for 100 per cent participation in the 1961 CUF campaign.

Pledges from the group, the co-chairmen said, have met the designated goal, with the six employes making their contributions by the payroll payment plan of giving.

Geare and Farrell pointed out that this marks the third successive year the Cumberland Office Supply employes have signed up 100 per cent. The group will qualify for a citation at the CUF awards dinner later this year.

Yesterday's meeting, held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel Grill Room, also was featured by announcement that the Cumberland Area Golden Gifts Division has passed the half-way mark toward its goal of $122,000.

Winfield H. Adam, executive director of County United Fund, told the gathering that Golden Gifts to date amounted to $82,000.

Farrell reviewed the mechanics of soliciting for employe-groups, informing those attending that the most popular way of giving appears to be through the payroll payment plan.

Expressing appreciation for the turnout at the breakfast meeting, Geare told the workers and captains their willingness to serve on "our area's greatest endeavor for good—the CUF," left him confident the division's goal of $49,000 would be attained.

More than 200 employe-groups are represented in the Classified Division, the co-chairmen stated.

Team captains for the Classified campaign are Fred A. Hutchison, John J. McMullen Jr., Carl Vandegrift, Charles A. Wilt, David P. Goodfellow, Robert G. Garner, Harry Rambo, Andrew M. Phillips, Joseph Freno, George A. Caswell.

James E. McGarrah, Roy H. Knotts, Gerald L. Barb, James H. Smith, J. Edgar MacMannis, Ronald J. Screen, Ernest A. Lindsay, Robert C. Petersen, Wallace G. Ullery, William B. Orndorff, Thomas F. Conlon Jr., George B. Jenkins and Jack A. Petry.

Geare and Farrell said no other report meeting will be held, informing the captains they are to turn in individual returns to the CUF office.

The captains were urged to make every effort to complete their solicitation by Friday, September 29.

PTA To Hold Meeting Today

Northeast Elementary School PTA will hold its first meeting of the school term Thursday with room visitation to begin at 7:30 p. m.

Charles G. Smith, deputy civil defense director for Allegany County, will speak to the group.

Officers and chairmen of various committees will be introduced.

Two Prisoners Will Be Taken To Institutions

Two prisoners will be taken to state penal institutions today by deputy sheriffs to begin serving their sentences.

One is Mrs. Bessie C. Galliher, 46-year-old Rawlings Heights woman, who was found guilty by an all-male jury of slaying her husband, Joseph Galliher Sr., 48, during a "drinking spree" at their home.

She will begin serving a 10-year sentence in the Maryland Reformatory for Females with the sentence to begin as of June 5 when she was taken into custody. She stabbed her husband with a steak knife.

The other prisoner is Samuel Wright, who was one of a trio of men convicted here several years ago as "rogues and vagabonds" and sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary.

Wright was returned here September 7 by deputy sheriffs on a detainer filed with the warden of the Ohio State Penitentiary where Wright served a two year term for a criminal violation in that state while out on bond pending an appeal from the local Circuit Court.

Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris sentenced Mrs. Galliher and several years ago was the sentencing judge in the case against Wright.

Knit fashions require the most careful selection of the right underprops. Bras and girdles must give smooth longer lines rather than curvy emphatic ones. A high top girdle which nips in the waist, for example, and makes the hips proportionately more curvaceous, would be the wrong foundation to wear under knits.

GRADUATES — Miss Patricia A Turner, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Turner, 437 Pennsylvania Avenue, was graduated this month from Washington County Hospital School of Nursing, Hagerstown. She is a graduate of Fort Hill High School, Class of 1958. She is employed in the obstetrics department of Washington County Hospital.

Penn Avenue PTA To Meet Today

An orientation meeting will be held today at 7:30 p. m. by the Pennsylvania Avenue PTA for parents of children in the first and seventh grades at the school.

James Maphis, PTA president, said the parents will be taken on a tour of the school and teachers for the two grades will be introduced to parents.

Following the orientation program and tour the PTA officers and committee chairmen will meet to discuss the program for the upcoming months.

The full PTA meeting will be held October 12 at 7:30 p. m. at the school auditorium.

LaVale Group Hears Report On Projects

The LaVale Civic Improvement Association Board of Directors was told Monday that the water line to Henry Drive is nearly completed and it is planned to replace the main transmission line from Laber's Springs in the near future.

Lloyd Buchanan, committee chairman, said rights-of-way for the line replacement are being obtained. He also reported that the LaVale Sanitary Commission, according to last year's financial report is a $626,000 operation.

Dr. Harry Butler asked that the association Streets Committee study obstruction of entrances onto Route 40, especially since the increase in the speed limit to 40 miles an hour makes entrance more difficult. It was suggested that shrubs, trees and the like which obstruct vision should be cut back or removed.

Allan Macy, chairman of the association's newsletter, said the first issue will be October 15. The "Suburban Report" will carry a calendar of events for citizens of LaVale and discussions of problems concerning LaVale only. The first issue is being financed solely by the association.

A letter was received from George B. Hale of the State Roads Commission, asking that mailboxes along Route 40 be improved. Attention should be given to pipe supports and placing of mailboxes, it was said.

Also heard were James Loar, president of the LaVale Fire Company, on plans for the October fund drive; Douglas Smith in a report on zoning; Cameron Otto on membership and Albert Tosh, recreation.

Walter Hedrick, program chairman, said the next meeting Monday, October 16, will feature a talk by Robert C. Petersen, manager of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, who will speak on "Cumberland and Its Relations With Its Suburban Neighbors."

Hedrick was appointed UHF chairman for the association which adopted the TV program to its field of interest.

Mrs. Lloyd Buchanan, chairman, presided.

Local Underwriters To Meet Tomorrow

The fall meeting of the Life Underwriters Association will be held Friday at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA, according to George Aldom, president.

The program will feature a talk on "Advisability of Programming Life Insurance" by Kenneth Gingerich, CLU, and the presentation of certificates to members who have passed a life underwriters training course.

Scheduled to receive certificates are Joseph E. Barnard, Dennis M. Bobo, Glover E. Heavener, Francis Mattingly, Walter Maxey, Augustine Peretti, Samuel Walker, Darrell Zeller and Gingerich.

Reservations can be obtained by calling Robert Collins at PA 2-2840, before noon today.

JOSEPH P. BROCATOR

Fairgo Facts

By C. V. BURNS

One of the best known racing officials in Maryland and West Virginia is Joseph Paul Brocator, 40, who fills the role of placing judge at the current meeting of the Cumberland Fair Association.

"Buddy" as he is more familiarly known among his friends in the racing world, is the racing secretary at Charles Town, W. Va., and he will be filling that position for the fourth straight year when the December session opens in Jefferson county. That was where he got his start as a racing official in 1947.

Brocator is no stranger to Fairgo and has served at various posts at the local half miler.

During his 14 years' association with racing, "Buddy" has been patrol judge, placing judge, clerk of the scales, steward and racing secretary.

Joseph Gordon Brocator, who writes racing for the Washington Post-Times Herald under the name of "Paddock," is "Buddy's" father. The senior Brocator has been covering the races for 30 years for Washington newspapers and is now on the job at the Atlantic City meeting.

"Buddy's" home is at Silver Spring, Md.

Glenwood "Tag" Reel, exalted ruler of Cumberland Lodge No. 63, will present a U. S. savings bond to the trainer of the winner in the B. P. O. Elks Purse, the 7th race on today's program.

Al Abrams, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Post Gazette, organizer and national president of Dapper Dan Clubs, is expected here Friday for the eleventh running of the Dapper Dan Trophy race.

Horses with the No. 1 post position have won 17 of the 73 races run to date at Fairgo. The No. 2 horses have finished on top 12 times and Nos. 3 and 4 have posted 10 wins each.

The box score:

Post Position	1	2	3
No. 1	17	10	7
No. 2	12	17	10
No. 3	10	15	11
No. 4	10	7	13
No. 5	7	8	11
No. 6	6	11	10
No. 7	6	4	4
No. 8	5	1	8
TOTALS	73	73	74

(There has been one deadheat for third place)

At the last 12-day meeting here in 1958 a total of $1,688 representing uncashed mutuel tickets was turned over to the state treasury. Tickets may be redeemed for one year after the meet and all monies unclaimed then go to the state.

The stable trained by Reginald Scott, of Monkton, Md., leads the money winners at Fairgo, having won purses totaling $3,552.

Trainer	Total
W. S. Moxley, Ellicott City	$3,251
Shirley T. Payne, Berryville, Va.	3,183
Joe Paoli, Pimlico	3,169
Angelo Bertrando, Toughkenamon, Pa.	3,169
John N. Greer, Bel Air, Md.	3,107
Robert Girardin, Red Bank, N. J.	2,911
Glenn C. Smith, Dillsburg, Pa.	2,845
Louis E. Torreyson, Bethesda, Md.	2,831

Rain, Hurricane Threat Cancels Race Meeting

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI)—Heavy rains and the threat of hurricane Ether striking near the Atlantic City race track forced cancellation of Wednesday's racing program.

A new racing program was drawn for Thursday and the dates for two stakes events scheduled to be run Wednesday were rearranged.

Following the cancellation Thomas J. Brogan, chairman of the New Jersey Racing Commission, granted the track an extension of one day to make up for the rainout. The meeting now will close Oct. 4.

Wednesday's washout was the second in the 16-year-old history of the track. Hurricane Donna forced cancellation of the Sept. 12 program last year.

Gonzalez Plans Tennis Retirement

LONDON (AP) — Professional tennis champion Pancho Gonzalez Wednesday night announced he is retiring from big time professional tennis next month.

"I'm retiring just as soon as my contract with Jack Kramer's professional troupe runs out Oct. 31," he said in an interview.

The CENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

The War for the Union 1861-65 in Pictures

No. 60 Shot-towers that dominated the skylines of New York, St. Louis, Baltimore and other cities in the 19th century—they were the tallest man-made structures in most places before the advent of the skyscraper office building—proved of advantage to the North at the beginning of the war. The South was not well-equipped with them.

These towers were used in making round shot by dropping molten metal from a heating chamber at the top of the structure through sieves or colanders down into a deep tank of water at the bottom. In the descent the dropping of lead or lead alloy assumed globular forms that solidified in the cold water that flowed from a spring or other source of constant replenishment.

Previous to the invention of the method, it was a slow process as well as a virtually impossible one to cast shot perfectly round for accurate shooting. It is stated that the invention came of a dream by the wife of an English brass founder who had been complaining of his problem within her hearing. She dreamt that her husband stood at the top of an L-shaped set of stairs in their castle and poured metal through a sieve that fell into a wash-tub at the bottom of the stairs. The dream so impressed the lady that she woke up her husband to tell him about it.

The story is that he wanted to go back to sleep, until forced by the insistent wife to get up and make the experiment. The outcome was a patent that the husband sold for a round sum to a British firm which subsequently dominated the British market in lead shot for some years.

A shot-tower erected in Baltimore in 1828 has survived as a tourist sight. Remains of a taller (200 foot) tower also erected in 1828 to utilize lead from the mines of the region, can be seen near Madison, Wis. Dubuque, Iowa, has one dating from 1855, when it provided lead shot for Western frontiersmen.

—CLARK KINNAIRD

Southern States Attracting Northern Industry

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass. — The treasurer of a large Massachusetts Savings Bank told me yesterday that his new deposits are running over $20,000 a day. I asked him how he invested that much and he replied: "I send it all to Mississippi." This means that the people of this New England city, instead of having their savings invested in New England, are sending them down South to be invested. Individuals in New England are sending their savings to New York City for investment in the stock market. Therefore, most New England cities are starving for capital with which to start new factories and give employment to their own people. This largely explains the troubles of New England cities today. Furthermore, this same situation explains unemployment conditions in other cities of the North.

Six Fastest Growing States

In a previous column this summer I mentioned six Southern States which have special laws to encourage industry. I briefly explained that these laws permit city bonds to be issued to build factories, just as most states float bonds to build highways. So many inquiries have come to me asking details of these revenue bond laws, that I am devoting this week's column to the subject. I take as an illustration the city of Tupelo, Mississippi. This city is getting not only its capital largely from New England, but also some of our best young men. One of the ablest men in Tupelo is Frank Dodge, who came from the little town of New Boston, N. H.

The first step which a northern city must take, in this connection, is to have the state pass a law whereby a city may issue these revenue bonds to build factories as well as to build toll roads. Thus far, when a northern city has gone to its legislature for such an amendment, the bond dealers have killed the proposed amendment. They have been assisted by the conservative municipal bond holders of their community. These bond holders have selfishly thought only of themselves and have disregarded the welfare of their community.

How The Plan Works

Let us assume that an established company with good credit is willing to build a factory in your community costing $500,000, provided the city will issue industrial revenue bonds in this amount to pay for the cost. The company for which the factory is being built takes a twenty-year lease for $35,000, which includes modernization and interest at very low annual rates. This is possible because the interest is federal tax exempt and because of other advantages. The cost of $500,000 includes land, concrete floors and walls, and all normal electrical wiring, plumbing, air conditioning, a sprinkler system, and heating for a building of approximately 125,000 square feet.

The building is owned by the city and gets a 99-year tax exemption from the city, county, and state. The credit of the firm leasing the factory is not encumbered because it is a lease contract. The $500,000 revenue bond issue provides the full faith and credit of the city voted by the citizens at a special election on the project. These bonds furnish federal tax exemption to the purchasers because they are issued by a city. The rate of interest will be determined more by the credit of the leasing company than by the credit of the particular municipal issuing the bonds.

How To Secure Details

Readers of this column may write to Mayor James O. Ballard of Tupelo, Mississippi for a copy of the "Bawi" Law. States amending their constitutions accordingly should find their unemployment problems largely solved, since new industries will provide new jobs for people who are willing to do good work at a fair wage. The program thus assures rising employment and a good rate of interest on a federally non-taxable bond, and the municipality receives a fair rental from the property. The bonds are amortized and interest paid during the term of the 20-year lease. So far, I have not known of a default.

Humor Might Improve U.S. Prestige Abroad

NEW YORK (UPI)—One of New York's most successful and "hip" (that's the opposite of "square") comedians thinks a little humor could help boost U. S. prestige abroad.

He is Stan Freberg, who has spoofed his way through radio, television, records and advertising campaigns.

Freberg makes a handsome living in the advertising business by kidding the proverbial pants off it.

His other activities include a presentation on records of American history, a musical comedy and a book called "Freberg's First Reader for Adults."

But it is in a field in which satire has been virtually unused that Freberg would like to try his talents. The field is international relations and his interest is based on the belief that social criticism, disguised by humor, can be used to improve the American image in foreign lands.

Would Drop Everything

"If someone in the White House or in the State Department asked me if I'd like to work on a program for radio—say the Voice of America—in which satire is employed to sell democracy, I'd drop everything else I'm doing," he said in an interview.

Freberg believes the best policy for a nation to adopt after making any diplomatic booboos is to "laugh and come clean and admit it."

"Look, I managed to up sales 25 per cent in four months—which is extraordinary—for a chicken chow mein company by advertising that 95 per cent of Americans never touched the stuff," he said. "We admitted this and the public listened. If you can do that kind of a selling job for chicken chow mein, imagine what you can do for the United States."

Freberg, 34, realized the power of deftly handled satire while a student at Alhambra High School in Los Angeles. He won the election for Student Council president by promising his colleagues he would "turn the principal's office into an automatic car wash and install an eighty-foot picture window in the girls' gym." After school and service in the army, he disc jockied under the name of "Honest John," lampooned soap opera with a record called "John and Marsha" and gave children's television its first show of sophistication with "Time for Beany."

Freberg believed audiences had no truck with "being talked down to" and satire, deftly handled, was too effective a force to confine to entertainment.

Opens Ad Agency

In 1958, Freberg opened his own advertising consulting firm in Los Angeles. He called it "Freberg, Ltd." and advertised it with a business card which showed a picture of a bored-looking seal. Above the animal's head was written in Latin the motto of the firm which, translated, was "Art for Money's Sake."

When he became sure his unconventional ad business was rolling financially, Freberg made his first venture into political satire.

Here's a bit from the first of a four-record set called "Stan Freberg presents the United States of America."

The scene is in the 1620s when a mayor in Massachusetts, running for reelection, is having a hard time corralling the "Indian vote." He turns down a suggestion to pick an Indian as a running mate and instead sings:

"Take an Indian to lunch this week,
Let him sit right down and munch this week.
Let's give in and all do the brotherhood bit.
Just make sure we don't make a habit of it . . ."

The ACW dance band will present a program of music.

Officers of the PTA unit are Mrs. Edna Cessna, president; Harold Weber, vice president; Mrs. Catherine Armstrong, secretary and Mrs. Bettie Armstrong, treasurer.

Members of the executive board are Mrs. Delores Sindy, budget and finance; Mrs. Mary Hershberger, Girl Scouts; Mrs. Margaret Wolford and Mrs. Evelyn Barton, homeroom mothers; Mrs. Nellie Phillips, hospitality; Mrs. Helen Poe, publicity and historian; Parliamentarian, Mrs. Ruby Adams; parent-education, Mrs. Zetta Wallace; membership, Mrs. Mary Walton; librarian, Mrs. Virginia Stevens; program, Mrs. Virginia Moreland; publications, Mrs. Betty Beachy; music, Mrs. Delores Allabashi; health, Mrs. Clarice Myers; character and spiritual education, Harold Friend; safety and recreation, Mrs. Franklin Young; legislature, Junior Bishop.

Flee Castro's Army

MIAMI (UPI)—Sixty-four Cuban officers and men in Oriente Province "went over the hill" last week in the biggest mass desertion yet from Premier Fidel Castro's army, travelers from Cuba said Wednesday.

It was not immediately certain whether they meant to take to the hills and fight against the regime or whether they would try to escape from Cuba.

Castro's brother Raul, the minister of armed forces, ordered the deserters recaptured "at any cost." Airplanes and helicopters were dispatched to aid the search.

Social To Feature PTA Meeting

A social hour will mark the first meeting of the school term of the Centre Street Parent-Teachers Association today at 7:30 p. m. in the school auditorium.

No program has been scheduled and classroom visitation will not be held during the first meeting. Refreshments will be served by parents of sixth grade children.

Committee chairmen for the year are Mrs. Iris Dawson, membership; Mrs. Ada Schritchfield, program; Mrs. Francis Miller, health; Mrs. Florett Barger, hospitality; Mrs. Frank Hilliker, safety; Mrs. Janice Billmyer, refreshments; Mrs. Eugene Weber, group discussion leader; Mrs. Virginia Chorpenning, devotions, and Mrs. Mary Radcliffe, legislation.

The PTA's theme for the year is "Blueprints for the Future."

Easy frosting: Beat an egg white stiff; then gradually beat in half a cup of red currant Jelly; continue beating until mixture stands in peaks. Add a little red food coloring, if you like.

What About That Space Platform?

Back when interest in space exploration was just getting its first big impetus there was much talk about sending up men and materials to assemble a platform for launching space vehicles.

In recent years there has been little mention of the platform. Instead, there has been concentration on building up booster power so that space probes would reach the moon (or nearby planets) on a direct shot from earth.

Now interest in the platform idea is being revived. The U. S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration wants more money in next year's budget for it. It sees hope in the idea of combining a space platform with existing or soon-to-be existing rockets to get a man to the moon first.

It takes much less power to achieve an earth orbit for a payload of the magnitude necessary to start work on a space platform than it does to send a comparable payload directly to the moon. And once the station is established, much less power is required to send bigger payloads farther into space.

If there is substantial gain in being the first to send a man to the moon, and if the space platform will assist in doing it, the idea certainly deserves further research. But if the platform would not step up the timetable, it probably would not be worth the additional expense.

It isn't difficult to guess the reaction of the Russians if the U. S. succeeds in setting up a space platform. They would undoubtedly see in it "aggression by an imperialistic power."

But that should be no cause for worry. The Russians have called the U. S. Midas and Samos satellites the same thing. They will continue the name-calling until there is agreement on a law for space. And probably after that.

Tito Says 'K' Pressured By Army To Take Tough Line Against U.S.

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia in a talk with U. S. Ambassador George Kennan in Belgrade last week reported that Premier Krushchev was under heavy pressure from leaders of the Red army and the old Stalinist crowd to take a tougher line against the United States. He expressed belief that they were ready to make things decidedly hot for K unless he got tough.

Tito, head of a neutralist state, has had a pretty good pipeline into the Kremlin in the past. Regardless of his talk with Ambassador Kennan, however, there is every reason to believe that Khrushchev does face a division inside the Kremlin somewhat like that which Kennedy faces inside his administration.

It's no secret that some of our military leaders believe war with the Soviet is inevitable; and it's almost certain that some Red Army leaders feel the same way toward the United States. Recent sabre-rattling statements by Defense Minister Malinovsky, Marshal M. Y. Katukov, commander of armored tank forces, and Marshal Andre Teremenko, commander at Stalingrad, all point to this.

Khrushchev has had a certain amount of trouble with the Red Army in the past and in 1957 found it necessary to oust Marshal Zhukov. Recently he has had considerably more trouble with the Red Chinese over his revision of Lenin's old doctrine that war with the capitalist world is inevitable.

My own observation inside the Soviet failed to net clear-cut evidence as to how strong is the current cleavage between Khrushchev and the Red Army-Stalinist crowd, but I picked up certain telltale clues.

Khrushchev himself, in discussing Berlin, said that he was "under pressure" from his military leaders to resume nuclear testing. They argued, he said, that if war was to come they had to test new nuclear weapons they had developed.

He also said he was being pressured by the military not to demobilize the members of the Red Army due for discharge. They were the most experienced, he said, and the military wanted to keep them in service in case of war.

Clues Of Peace

However, the great preponderance of Khrushchev's talks indicated clearly that he does not want war. As I reported previously, Khrushchev is a tough bargainer and I am convinced is going to sign a peace treaty with East Germany. But he wants no war.

Among the clues that indicate his desire for peace was the fact that Khrushchev has been pressing the State Department to renew the cultural exchange program for another two years. This would mean the exchange of more students, professors, theatrical and musical companies, trade fairs, and so on.

"We have been willing to go ahead with a new cultural exchange agreement," he said, "but the talks are stalled because your State Department doesn't want to talk—until Berlin is settled.

"You now have your own Iron Curtain," he chided. "You seem to be afraid to send people over here."

Mr. K also complained that the Soviet government and Pan American Airways had initialed an agreement for direct flights between Moscow and New York when suddenly the State Department stepped in and stopped the negotiations.

His planning for more Soviet-American contacts was not that of a man who planned to attack the United States in December.

One of his cabinet members also talked to me about the advisability of inviting Joseph P. Kennedy, father of the President, to Moscow, to show that there was no hard feeling toward the President. When I told him that the elder Kennedy was remaining in the background, was loath to give his son advice, it was suggested that perhaps the President's brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, should be invited to Moscow.

The Last War

Most revealing of all, perhaps, was Khrushchev's conversation about the last war. He had been civilian commissar for the Red Army at both the Stalingrad and Kursk fronts, where Averell Harriman, U. S. Ambassador to Russia during the war, told me K's determination had helped inspire Russian resistance. He had lost his son in the war, and told me in some detail of the suffering of the Russian people.

"In the West you remember Stalingrad," he said, "but we remember the Kursk front as even more crucial. The casualties were terrible. After we won at Kursk, however, the German army started its long retreat that did not end until it reached Berlin."

During the battle of Stalingrad, Khrushchev said his unit had occupied a dugout just evacuated by German troops.

"Then some Russian air force men came along and said it was their dugout. 'No', we said, 'we were here first'.

"'But we've mined it', they said, 'and we want it back. We'll show you the mines'.

"At first we thought it was a ruse to get us out of the dugout. But they showed us the mines. They had been set for 20 days, with the expectation that the Germans would be back in that time. We had been sleeping on top of the mines."

These were the hazards of war which Khrushchev lived through and which he does not want to live through again. I believe him when he says this. Other developments, including the report from Marshal Tito, also indicate that he may be under considerable pressure from the Red Army.

In brief, both Secretary of State Rusk and Foreign Minister Gromyko have a certain amount of division within their governments as they negotiate in New York over the difficult question of Berlin.

Soviets Intensify Nerve Warfare In Iran

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Among the Western policy-makers, there is rising concern about a possible Soviet attack on Iran, to be launched when the Berlin crisis absorbs the entire attention of the leaders of the West.

When the horizon is already so dark, it is depressing to have to report the appearance of still another storm cloud. But the cloud is clearly there, in the form of plentiful signs that the masters of the Kremlin are at least considering this new adventure in the Middle East.

No one can say whether the adventure will finally be ordered, and if so when. The State Department rather strongly tends to think it will not happen. The British Foreign Office, on the contrary, inclines to think it will happen. The decision is wholly in the hands of Nikita S. Khrushchev, who has ample military force in southern Russia to intervene in Iran if he chooses to run this additional risk.

The signs that the Kremlin is playing with the idea of such an adventure should no longer be ignored, in any case. They take the form of Soviet threats to the Iranian government of really unprecedented violence and arrogance, combined with the kind of pronouncements by the Soviet propaganda apparatus that might well presage trouble ahead.

The general Soviet line is that Iran will face nuclear destruction "in the not too distant future"—the phrase has been used — unless the Irania government pulls out of the Central Treaty Organization. As indicated by the presence of the Iranian representative at the CENTO meeting in New York, the Shah of Iran and Prime Minister Ali Amini have refused to be cowed by this talk.

The threats have been uttered in the most formal diplomatic manner, by the Ambassador to Teheran, Nikolai Pigov, for instance, in a recent interview with the Iranian Foreign Minister. Officials of the Soviet Embassy in Iran have also been spreading the word that the Kremlin is "convinced of Iran's aggressive intentions," and is preparing to take "preventive" action under the 1921 treaty which, the Kremlin claims, gives Russia a right of intervention in Iran.

Meanwhile, the Soviet propaganda apparatus has carried not only the threat above summarized, but has also offered repeated reports and/or predictions of revolutions and risings in Iran, of the sort that might be taken as a pretext for intervention. Only five days ago, the Soviet broadcast beamed to Iran's northern province of Azerbaijan wholly falsely announced a general Azerbaijanian uprising against the central government.

Add to this that the Soviet agent among the Kurdish people, Mullah Mustaxa Barzani, has been stirring up very grave trouble in neighboring Iraq's predominantly Kurdish northern provinces. Add further that there are some signs of Kurdish agitation in northern Iran. It can be seen why the U. S. Ambassador to Teheran, Julius Holmes, recently promised the Iranian government full "U. S. support in case of trouble" with the Soviets.

In judging these signs, of course, it must be remembered that Soviet menaces are now an enormously inflated currency. When Khrushchev and his ambassadors begin to bellow about "nuclear destruction," it does not mean nearly as much as it did in the past, when a Tsarist Foreign Minister quietly mentioned "very grave consequences."

Furthermore, the Soviets have been bellowing at the Iranians almost continuously for the last two years. The shrieks and roars of menace have merely taken on an extra edge of ugliness in recent months and weeks.

Maybe the State Department is right in thinking that all this is just another intensification of nerve warfare. But if the British Foreign Office view is correct — if there is a considerable possibility, in fact, of a Soviet military attack on Iran — then the world outlook is even darker than the pessimists have previously supposed.

A Soviet attack on Iran, combined with climactic pressure on Berlin, would add up to a general political-military offensive against the Western allies in general and against the U. S., as leader of the West, in particular. It would leave no alternatives whatever, except American surrender on the most abject terms, or full-scale thermo-nuclear war.

In short, if such an adventure is even being tentatively mulled over in the Kremlin, it would just mean that Khrushchev is not yet convinced that the U. S. means business, either at Berlin or anywhere else. In some ways, this is the ugliest aspect of the whole ugly affair.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

On Tourisme

The French are apparently disturbed that Americans, this past summer, did not visit Paris in droves and spent their money like drunken sailors. France, as many other countries, takes tourisme very seriously because it represents both a visible and invisible income and maintains the exchange rate between the two currencies. Every dollar left in France is beneficial to that country.

Undoubtedly, one reason why the tourist went elsewhere is that the American dollar bought less in many countries than heretofore. The American who can afford to travel may have as much cash as he had a year or five ago, but he resents the double price system which prevails in many countries — that is, one price for natives and another price for Americans. Even if France this year breaks even on tourisme, that is, gets about $300,000,000, the French are nevertheless concerned that large numbers of Americans are going to other countries and that the money they spend goes elsewhere. Tourisme is traditionally an important factor in France's economy.

There are all kinds of Americans who travel. There is the school-teacher with limited funds; there are those playthings whose names appear in Elsa Maxwell's column. Economically, the moderate spending tourist, like the school-teacher or the student or the business man's wife is worth more, in tourisme accounting, than the fancy rich who follow the seasons. Money is of the same value no matter where it comes from. The very rich rarely spend too much, and there are too few of them. It is the middle class person off on a spree who is the best spender.

It is like the expensive restaurants in New York that most people cannot afford to go to. Not one of them earns as much annually as a chain restaurant that caters to large numbers. The prestige restaurant has its value, but money-wise, any place that caters to the mass trade earns more and earns it more easily.

In the United States, the two price system does not exist. Wherever in Europe, it does exist, the American tourist feels that he is a sucker, and that he does not like at all. Also, Americans are accustomed to paying tips, rather lavishly, but when the tip is put on the bill and they have to pay another one on top of that they feel that they are being robbed.

Also, he wonders, and quite justly, whether the tip on the bill is paid to the waiter or maid who provides the service or whether part of it goes to the managers who are supposed to be above taking tips. Even in New York, when, at banquets, the guest reads a card to the effect that the host has paid the tips, waiters, on the side, complain that the bosses swipe part of the tips. Nobody likes that. The two price system has given France a very bad name.

Also, a large number of Americans go to Asiatic and African countries; and to places like Greece and Hong Kong where they can see something old and different and where prices are reasonable; Japan has built up a considerable tourist trade. Hong Kong specializes in quick production of men's and women's made-to-order clothes at very reasonable prices. In fact, there has been a startling increase in American tourisme to Hong Kong.

When it was possible to bring into the United States considerable purchases from abroad, the trip could be calculated on that basis, but now that a $100 limit is being put on tourists' imports, still fewer will travel because the advantage of buying good clothes at comparatively cheap prices will be gone. A fancy dress is as expensive in Paris as in New York if the duty has to be paid.

Hotel men say that Americans are accustomed to first rate hotel service and that the European hotels are often not more than 19th Century boarding houses, with toilet arrangements to which Americans are not accustomed any longer and with plumbing generally that does not suit the American taste. Also, since World War II, Americans have become increasingly critical of unsatisfactory conditions in European countries at what really amounts to high prices. The appearance of American managed new hotels in many parts of the world will make a difference. Americans are accustomed to body comforts and expect them.

Some have found more fun in an automobile, driving about the United States and seeing their own country in great comfort, particularly since the motel has come into existence.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NOSTALGIA — Richard M. Nixon, Vice President under Eisenhower and the defeated GOP Presidential candidate in 1960, has left the Washington scene — temporarily, he hopes — for his native California.

And what does he miss most? Not the chauffeured limousine. Not the dinners at the White House. Not the political power. Not the world travel, or the air of being in the middle of great events.

"The view from the window of my old office in the Capitol that looked down on the whole length of the Mall to the Washington Monument," Nixon recently confided to a friend. "What a wonderful view that is and how I miss it!"

WHITE HOUSE CHINA—Most Americans will never sit down to dinner at the White House, but First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy is determined that as many as possible become acquainted with the appearance of the Presidential table.

She is loaning White House china, silver and glassware for an exhibit to table settings that run all the way back to George Washington's time to the Art Institute of Chicago. The exhibit will open there late in October and will run for six weeks. Other museums will also feature the display in the months ahead.

The settings will be as close as possible to the original occasions of state dinners over the past 200 years. Even the original menus will be provided wherever possible.

Not all of the crockery will be White House originals. Museums around the country, including the Smithsonian Institution and Winterthur at Wilmington, Del., are contributing what they have available.

On Jewish Humor

By John Crosby

An Englishman named Kenneth Allsop has declared in "The Twentieth Century" quarterly that American humor is all Jewish. "Almost all the new iconoclasts are Jewish," Allsop writes, "and theirs might be seen as a logical extension into the European-Jewish deflationary humor of an earlier generation."

This is an interesting supposition and I asked Burton Bernstein, author of "The Grove," a humorous book of short stories about middle class Jews, if he thought this were true. "I think it's about time somebody came right out and said it," said Bernstein. "At the risk of sounding anti-Semitic, I'd say one reason is that so many of our comedians are Jewish and always have been. Jerry Lewis, Jack Benny, George Jessel, Groucho Marx, George Burns, even Nichols and May, Mort Sahl, and Shelley Berman — who, by the way, is just taking a very old and very funny Jessel routine of talking to mama on the telephone and doing it very well."

Bernstein said he thought the Jew has come of age in this century and in this generation. "He is accepted as an integral part of America. Philip Roth (who won the National Book Award with a book of very Jewish short stories) and Malamud (who won the award the year before Roth with a similar book) were writing about second generation Jews but they were Jewish Americans; their place was here.

"As Lillian Hellman said of my book, a perfect description, is that it is 'the treatment of the comic land that lies between the rules of the old world and the pleasures of the new.' This is true of my book and I think it is true of Philip Roth's book and of Malamud's book.

"The reason for the other books such as 'Exodus' and 'The Wall' and 'Mila 18' having such success is that the story of the birth of Israel and the story of the Warsaw ghetto are both damned good stories. It is inconceivable that only one person should write about the Warsaw ghetto. Like the Civil War, the Warsaw ghetto will continue to be written about.

"There is a more profound reason for the Jew to be more accepted; in order to get out of the lower East Side, the child was encouraged to be a great violinist, to get back to his room and practice. The Jews got out of the lower East Side through business or through the creative arts, just as the Irish got out of there through politics."

Bernstein feels strongly that World War II marked a dividing point in the life of the Jew and the rest of the world. "It makes a non-Jew stand back in awe and wonderment at the thought of a man in Germany trying to exterminate an ethnic group.

"In my book I didn't aim for Yiddish humor. There are no Yiddisms. I did not use Yiddisms because I wanted to point up the American humor of the people in the book, their attempt at being equals. Yet, they were not able completely to shake loose their rules of the Old World and their sense of triumph at getting out of the ghetto. The mixture of the old and the new I found funny and I hope the book is.

"I don't think anyone has written about the Jew this way. Roth has written mostly about the second generation. Sholom Aleichem has written about the European Jew, Malamud about the New York Jew. The Jew I write about is not in any of these groups; yet he still feels — as they do — safety in numbers, a leftover from the ghetto."

He thought about it a moment and then added: "Jewish humor is self criticism all the way. The most anti-Semitic jokes jokes are told by Jews about other Jews. I think that's why America accepts this humor — America is ready for self-criticism."

Another Vanishing Disease Stages A Comeback

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

When I was in medical school, a potentially fatal infection of the parotid gland (the one usually involved in mumps) occurred occasionally after surgery. This condition (acute pyogenic parotitis) began to disappear after penicillin and the sulfonamides became popular remedies. By 1950, it dawned on many surgeons that this type of parotitis was a vanishing disease.

But downing tough germs is difficult. Dr. John S. Spratt Jr. of St. Louis reviewed the records of 178 victims of this disease, extending from 1911 to 1959. The incidence, which began dropping in 1940, started rising in 1950 and has continued upward since. Furthermore, the disorder is just as serious as it was in the past and the pus must be drained via an incision extending from jaw to ear. Thus another vanishing disease is staging a comeback.

Some drinking water has a high sodium content. This is the same element that is present in table salt and, unless its presence is suspected, victims of dropsy who are on a low salt diet may be getting too much salt.

Two Canadian physicians found that water from wells drilled in gravel soil and from rivers usually has a low sodium content. But this is not true of samples taken from private wells, especially where the soil was formed by the weathering of old sedimentary marine rocks containing a variety of alkaline salts.

In many of these places rainfall is not sufficient to carry the chemicals to rivers or other natural drainage outlets. This is prone to occur in prairie areas but not in the mountains where enough rain falls to leach out the alkaline salts and carry them away.

TOMORROW: Rheumatic fever.

BARIUM X-RAYS

W. N. writes: How long does barium stay in the body after it is taken for X-rays?

REPLY

Most of the barium is eliminated within 24 hours. Traces may remain in pockets and crevices of the intestine for days. If you have worms, the cycle will repeat itself because these creatures will swallow the barium and it will take time for the substance to pass through their intestines. X-rays at this time would reveal one or more slender lines.

SORE HEAD

R. C. writes: What would cause attacks of severe pain in the back of the head in an 11 year old girl?

REPLY

Possibilities include arthritis of the spine, a slipped disk, ordinary stiff neck, and neuralgia. She should be examined and X-rays taken of the involved area. Tension and infections in the throat are more remote possibilities.

UNEVEN LEGS

B. C. A. writes: My husband's left leg is a cuff length shorter than the right. Could this discrepancy be responsible for his backache?

REPLY

Yes. This a common cause of backache because it creates a strain on the vertebras and muscles of the back. A cuff length is about 1¾ inches, a marked difference between the two sides. How long has this been going on?

LUNG CANCER

Mrs. R. writes: Is lung cancer always the fast growing type that causes death soon after it is discovered?

REPLY

Many are fast growing but there are several types and some are slow growers.

COLD FOR BURNS

M. H. writes: If a woman burns her hands severely at the stove, what is the best first aid measure before the doctor arrives?

REPLY

Put the hands in cold or ice water.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Louis Quinn knows a big Broadway producer who was convinced he had reduced the fine arts of betting on horse races to an exact science. He would sneak out to the track every morning at sunrise, get down on his hands and knees, and scratch the turf to see if it was hard or soft—wet or dry. He figured this would enable him to pick the horse most apt to find the going good that afternoon.

The producer admits that he hasn't won a race yet this year—but he certainly has the dirtiest fingernails in town!

Editor Howard Smith, of the Miami News, met one girl on the beach who was so stupid he bet an associate she never had finished the eighth grade in elementary school. The associate returned triumphantly to report that the girl could produce a college diploma. "And guess what college she went to," chorted the associate. Bitterly, Smith hazarded, "Barely Normal."

Letters To The Editor

Sir:

While we are awaiting the full authority and protection of the U. N. and its World Court, when it supersedes our national sovereignty, the neutralist countries are now volunteering their services to protect us from Khrushchev upon the condition that we cease inflicting atrocities upon the Soviets. It is our opportunity to accept their mediations and get a preview of the impartiality which the neutralist nations will mete out as they exert the balance of power in the U. N.

Sukarno may be induced to act regularly as arbitrator between our President and the Kremlin. In case tension develops between the U. S. and Indonesia, Nehru or Khrushchev might be delegated to mediate.

General Eisenhower and the State Department, who worked so amicably together for eight years, are now taking up the question to settle the responsibility for setting up Berlin as a tinderbox!

Army To Offer Old Rank To Certain Veterans Who Re-enter Service

Master Sgt. Thomas J. Walbert, local Army recruiter, has received instructions from the Department of the Army which will enable many ex-Regular Army enlisted men and women to return to the service and retain the same grade held at the time of their last discharge.

Previously the retention of former grades was granted only to those who re-enlisted within 90 days of their discharge. Those who stayed out for longer periods lost a grade and in some cases two grades.

The new regulation will allow many former enlisted men and women to rejoin and retain their ranks even though they may have been out of service for as long as two years. Those who have been out longer than two years, but less than three years, may re-enlist in one grade lower than that held at the last discharge.

All applications must be submitted through recruiting channels and be individually approved by the Department of the Army in Washington.

Sgt. Walbert said the deciding factor for approval in most cases will be the military occupational specialty (MOS) held by the former service member during the last period of prior service.

Former service personnel who qualify under the time period listed may contact Sgt. Walbert at the Army recruiting office, third floor, Post Office building.

Sgt. Walbert also announced that nine area men have enlisted in the service.

They are Percy D. Shipley, Williams Road, and Robert L. Volk, 308 Pennsylvania Avenue, for service in Europe; Walter A. Thomas, Williams Road, field communications; William E. Harris, 620 North Centre Street, telephone plant maintenance; Gary D. Harper, 640 North Centre Street, airborne troops; Robert K. Smith, 306 Park Street, supply; Edward F. Shepherd, Cresaptown, motor transport; Thomas E. Dever, Winchester Road, supply and Charles L. Wilkinson, 423 Columbia Street, communications.

CAROLYN SUE LUMAN

Local Girl To Begin Professional Dance Career With Manhattan Rockettes

Carolyn Sue Luman, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Luman, 207 Cecelia Street, will start her professional dance career with the Manhattan Rockettes next month.

This famous dancing group tours the United States and travels abroad on public appearances.

Miss Luman auditioned on September 5, and when the director saw her demonstrate talent in all fields of the dance, she was offered an immediate contract.

A member of the Dixette dance line of Cumberland, Miss Luman appeared with this group in June on the Steel Pier at Atlantic City, N. J, Several talent scouts from New York monitored the Dixette line and selected Miss Luman for the audition with the Rockettes.

Miss Luman plans to leave October 2 for New York, where she will train until October 9. The group then will leave for a six-week tour of Texas. En route they are scheduled to play an engagement in Atlantic City and then appear in San Antonio the week; of October 19, in Austin the week of October 29, two weeks in Houston and two weeks in Fort Worth.

The Rockettes then will return to New York, and after a short leave will begin rehearsals for a new tour. The group is chaperoned at all times.

Miss Luman enrolled at the Dixon Dance Studio here when she was eight years old. She appeared twice before the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists at the Roosevelt Hotel in New York, when she was age 11 and 15, as a tap soloist. She appeared twice on the Ted Mack Show on the national TV network, had three engagements on the Steel Pier, was seen on the Tony Grant Show and also on Milt Grant's TV show in Washington, along with the Dixettes. She is well known as a talented and versatile entertainer and has appeared in the tri-state area for numerous benefits and public performances.

Miss Luman graduated from Ursuline Academy in June of this year. She was junior varsity cheerleader one year for LaSalle and varsity cheerleader for the past two years. Her hobbies are bowling and swimming and social dancing. She plans to make professional dancing her career.

Week's Food Economies

Cooler weather stimulates appetites to call for foods that are a bit heartier and stimulates homemakers to shop for foods that fit into early fall menus, says Virginia McLuckie, food economist in the Baltimore Office of the University of Maryland Department of Markets.

Plenty of seasonal vegetables are available for your choice. The best buys include a list of sweet corn, both white and yellow; celery, carrots, and white and sweet potatoes. The late crop of sweet corn offers you good quality corn that is low in cost. Remember corn cut off the cob can be used in a number of recipes that will vary menus. Celery is more versatile than often realized. For fresh celery and little waste it is best to buy only that which can be used within a week. Carrots are lower in cost and more liberal in supply.

The supply of white potatoes is very heavy and good buys are found in large size sacks. Serve potatoes baked, in stews, soups, and combination dishes. Sweet potatoes from Maryland and Virginia are new or green which means they are not cured. The local variety is the Nemagold which is a deep orange moist potato. Select small sized sweets for baking and the larger sizes when the potatoes will be cut in pieces for cooking.

The first of the fall crop of New York state cauliflower is available.

The fruit counter still has good quality peaches for your choice. Hydrocooling and late maturing crops have extended the peach season a little longer. Other fruits on the best buy list include Tokay grapes, Thompson seedless grapes, Bartlett pears and fresh prunes and apples. In addition to the Rambos, there are McIntosh, Jonathan and Red Delicious for your choice. Jonathans are an all purpose apple, good for cooking and also eating. The season for fresh prunes is short. Their texture and flavor make most acceptable in fruit salads and they are excellent in pies, puddings, and cobbler.

Relationship Of Diet And Heart Disease Explained

Explaining the relationship of diet and heart disease, the American Heart Association reports, that, in general there are three kinds of fats in the diet. Each has a different effect.

Saturated fats tend to increase blood cholesterol. Foods high in saturated fat are animal fat, whole milk, cream, cheese, butter, meat, coconut oil and chocolate.

Poly-unsaturated fats tend to diminish blood cholesterol. They are usually liquid oils. Foods high in poly-unsaturated fat are vegetable oils, corn, cottonseed, soya, fish and poultry.

Mono-unsaturated fats have no effect one way or the other. Olive oil is a common fat of this type.

All three kinds of fats often are present in any single food fat, but some foods are much higher in one kind than in another.

Liquid vegetable oils can lower cholesterol levels, but their ability to do so may be lost when they are converted into solid shortenings and margarines. However, there are new ways to process margarine so that it will be more like liquid vegetable oils in its effect on blood cholesterol.

Changes in fat content of the diet may benefit overweight persons and those who already have had a heart attack or stroke; men who may be prone to heart attacks or strokes, because of high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol levels or a family tendency.

It should be remembered that moderate amounts of fat, particularly poly-unsaturated fats, are necessary for good health. A balanced diet is important and extremes of all sorts should be avoided. No one should make major changes in diet, without first consulting a doctor.

While overweight cannot be the cause of heart and blood vessel diseases, physicians make a point of encouraging their heart patients to maintain a desirable weight. Although normal weight is no guarantee against heart trouble, doctors stress that overweight is a health hazard, whether one has heart disease or not.

Good general nutrition is important for everyone. The Heart Association urges a varied, well balanced diet; keep weight normal; do not put yourself on a special diet, it may be harmful and you may not need it; but if the doctor has put you on a special diet, follow it exactly.

Emphasize fashion points of your fall clothes—such as hip sash or side closing—with a distinctive pin, the season's biggest jewelry fashion.

Spanish Olive Oil A Health Food

In Europe, olive oil has long been regarded as a boon to good health. Many Europeans take a spoonful of Spanish olive oil when they first arise in the morning as we take vitamins. This oldest of the world's cooking and salad oils is a pure unsaturated vegetable oil and it aids digestion when taken plain or as an ingredient in salad dressing.

If you're a boat owner, keep bilge water germ-free and fresh-smelling with a strong solution of pungent cleaner like pine. A milder solution is good for swabbing decks.

Various Pork Dishes

The canned pork and gravy is flavorful, as well as protein-rich and an excellent source of thiamine, making it a good basis for satisfying meals high in nutritive value.

Here's a recipe for a hearty Pork Stew that combines pork with several summer vegetables that are now abundant.

- 2 medium-sized onions, quartered
- 2 medium-sized carrots, diced
- 2 medium-sized potatoes, diced
- 1 cup celery, cut in 1-in. pieces
- 3 cups vegetable liquid
- ¼ cup flour
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ can pork and gravy, diced

Boil vegetables until tender. Save the cooking liquid. If necessary, add water to bring up to 3 cups liquid. Mix with the flour and salt. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add the pork and gravy to the thickened liquid. Stir the vegetables into the meat mixture; combine carefully. Makes 6 servings.

Bar-B-Q Pork makes a mighty tempting main dish, with just the flavor for either outdoor or indoor fare.

- ¼ cup vinegar
- ¾ cup water
- 1½ cups catsup
- 1 large onion, chopped
- 1½ teaspoons dry mustard
- 1 tablespoon brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 can pork and gravy (cut into 6 slices)

Combine all ingredients except the meat, simmer for 5 minutes. Place the meat slices in a baking pan, pour sauce over the meat and bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) for 40 minutes. This may be heated on top of the stove if oven space is not available. Makes 6 servings.

A casserole dish is almost invariably popular and a Pork-Macaroni or Rice Casserole will assuredly make a hit with the family.

- ⅓ cup nonfat dry milk
- 1¼ cups water
- 1 cup grated cheese
- 1 egg beaten
- 2¾ cups cooked macaroni or rice
- ½ can pork and gravy, diced

Sprinkle the dry milk over water and beat to blend. Heat the milk and stir in cheese. Combine egg, macaroni or rice and the pork and gravy. Pour cheese sauce over the mixture and mix well. Place mixture in a greased baking dish and bake at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) for 40 minutes or until lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

The money barrel with no bottom: In this day of crisis and world tensions the White House seems to be trying to sell the idea to the people that it is just as imperative to fight Khrushchev with a half-a-billon dollars for combating stream pollution and 6 billion to provide public housing for families in the $8,000 a-year bracket as it is to station men and arms to meet the shock of coming attack. If the emergency is real, Spartan measures are called for. Yet the Administration proceeds with its requests for spending programs as if the money barrel has no bottom and the durability of the taxpayer no limit and as if the welfare state can take care of virtually every human whim while the garrison is facing siege.

In a special message to the Conference of Mayors, President Kennedy urged greather local activity to boost the economy, and then his Secretary of Commerce offered the mayors a long list of Federal programs which would enable them to avoid doing any such thing. So, the demands are coming in for sewers, hospitals, Schools, public housing, slum clearance, college dormitories, water-supply systems, and countless other things which formerly were locally financed.

When everything is of equal importance — defense and farm subsidies and free medical care and support for illegitimate children — then it is hardly surprising that the impression develops that nothing is of too great importance.

Let us put things in order. Let us subordinate the extraneous and unnecessary things so that we may save to pay the costs of the life-or-death test ahead. Let us stop being deluded by the gospel that the way to strengthen the economy upon which our defense rests is to sap the same economy continually.

Feeding the monster that threatens us: — Three weeks before President Kennedy's TV address on the Berlin crisis, the U. S. Department of Commerce authorized shipment of about a million dollars' worth of American goods to Khrushchev and his Iron Curtain countries. Included in these shipments were railway equipment, synthetic rubber, industrial instruments, and chemicals — items which could not be classified as "humanitarian, medical, or food stuffs". Furthermore, during the three weeks immediately folowing the President's "We'll-stand-firm" speech, export licenses for U. S. goods shipped into Soviet-controlled countries increased by about 800%.

How to be popular in one easy lesson: — The Soviet Union's performance during the past two or three weeks should be an object lesson in the problem which seems to obsess our leaders: how to win friends and mold world opinion. It is not disregard for world opinion that permitted the Soviets to resume nuclear testing openly but, paradoxically, a concern for world opinion. World opinion is important; and the way to win favorable world opinion is by a policy of confident self-interest. By Soviet reckoning, world opinion respects the show of Red force. Quite a case can be made for their logic by the way so many small nations thumb their noses at us and kowtow to the Russians. When you get right down to it, world opinion" is virtually meaningless unless it is based on respect for strength.

Spanish Green Beans

Here's a new way to prepare green beans: cook until just tender, still a little crisp, drain and set aside. Meantime, chop 2 or 3 red sweet peppers or canned pimientos and saute in 3 or 4 tablespoons Spanish olive oil with 1 crushed garlic clove and a few slices of onion. Add the drained beans and a tablespoon of minced parsley, cook until all vegetables are tender. Equally good hot or cold.

Meat-Cheese Kabobs

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- ¾ cup uncooked rolled oats
- 3 tablespoons minced onion
- 1½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
- ½ cup milk
- ¼ teaspoon garlic salt
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- ½ pound sharp American cheese cut into 16 squares
- 8 buttered hot dog buns

Combine all of the ingredients except the cheese and buns and mix well; chill. Shape meat into 16 meatballs, each one around a square of cheese. Thread meatballs onto skewers sealing meat closely around skewer; chill, if possible. Broil 4 to 5 inches from glowing coals, turning as needed to brown and cook evenly, 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

This Week In Congress

by Rep. Charles Mathias

A battle which involves the interest of every American taxpayer, and specifically the interests of many individuals in Maryland has just been won in the House of Representatives.

Since June 21st when the Joint Senate-House Committee on Atomic Energy recommended that the Congress provide $95 million for the construction of electric energy generating facilities at the new Plutonium Production Reactor at Hanford, Washington, a major battle has been waged between "public" and "private" power advocates. This controversy is now concluded, except for formalities, and I am happy to report to you this week the history of this victory for private enterprise and the American people.

This controversy which was culminated between June 21st of this year and the time of this report, actually started in 1958 when the Congress approved legislation authorizing the Atomic Energy Commission to construct a dual-purpose atomic reactor at Hanford, Washington at a cost of $145 million. This law stated that the purpose of the project was to provide for production of plutonium, an essential ingredient in nuclear weapons, and to generate electrical power. When former President Eisenhower signed the bill into law he stated that facts to justify the construction of electric power producting facilities were "wholly lacking". The 86th Congress then appropriated funds from the Federal Treasury which enabled the Atomic Energy Commission to begin construction of the plutonium-producing reactor but refrained from providing public funds for the total construction of the power producing facilities.

Last June 21st the controversy was again sparked by the introduction of the bill to appropriate public funds for the construction of this power project. The House of Representatives considered the public power "rider" which was attached to the Atomic Energy Commission's appropriations bill on July 13, on September 5 and on September 13. On these three occasions I voted against the expenditure of public funds for this unjustified project and am happy to report that the majority of the House of Representatives also voted against this scheme on these three dates. This was the only action possible for members of Congress who feel that we must keep Government out of private business.

In the first place the authorization for the entire Hanford project in 1958 had as its major purpose, and only justifiable purpose, the production of plutonium to bolster our Country's defensive capabilities. It became clear in both the hearings and the debate on this bill that the addition of public power facilities to this project would in no way advance nuclear power technology. Congress has constantly agreed that the proper role of the Atomic Energy Commission in the development of nuclear power should be research and development of processes that might ultimately lead to economic and efficient nuclear power. The requested expenditure of $95 million would in no way add to our technical knowledge.

This project was also, in my opinion, contrary to the purpose of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954. This Act makes it unequivocally clear that the Atomic Energy Commission is not authorized to sell "energy for commercial use". It seems clear that a power producing station capable of producing power to supply the needs of a city of over one million people would put the Atomic Energy Commission in the position of operating facilities primarily for the generation of electrical energy.

Other conclusions that I came to in my consideration of this bill are that this electricity producing facility would in fact be uneconomical. The Atomic Energy Commission would be in position to provide cheap power in the Pacific Northwest, thus giving industries which located in that area an unfair advantage by providing them with power financed in part by the Federal Government, at the expense of taxpayers in other areas. This could result in the project being used to attract industry away from other regions of our Country.

These reasons for voting against this project are further solidified by the questions of policy concerning the Federal Government's role in public utilities. In the future this project would undoubtedly be used to justify the construction of transmission lines leading to a gigantic Federal electric power grid. It would also constitute a precedent for the future encroachment of Government in private business. The Congress has constantly avoided using the Nation's atomic energy program as a means of encroaching on our traditional business enterprise system. In fact, the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 specifically declares it to be the policy of the United States that "the development, use, and control of atomic energy shall be directed so as to strengthen free competition in private enterprise". The disapproval of the Hanford power project by the Congress is consistent with this long established policy.

RAISIN FILLING FOR COOKIES

- ¾ cup ground raisins
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ⅓ cup water

Combine ingredients and cook until thickened, stirring frequently.

Peanut Butter Bread Pudding makes a nourishing and satisfying dessert, that will please all the family.

- 2 cups milk
- ½ cup sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon butter or margarine
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup peanut butter
- 3 slices bread

Scald milk and add sugar, salt, butter or margarine, and lemon rind. Beat eggs and gradually add milk mixture. Spread peanut butter on bread and cut into small cubes. Put cubes into greased baking dish and pour in milk mixture. Set in pan of hot water. Bake immediately at 350°F. (moderate oven) about 1¼ hours, or until set. Makes 4 servings.

For a different taste treat that's easy, baste chops or steaks with soy sauce. Little or no salt is needed with soy.

Peanut Butter Delights

Try these tasty Peanut Butter Muffins for one of your first baking projects. They'll go well with any meal of the day. The recipe is recommended by USDA home economists.

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
½ cup peanut butter
2 eggs beaten (or ⅓ cup sifted dried egg mixed with ⅓ cup water)
1 cup milk (or ¼ cup dry milk plus 1 cup water)

Sift dry ingredients together. Work in peanut butter. Combine eggs and milk and pour into dry ingredients. Add fat and stir just enough to moisten dry ingredients. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake at 400°F. (hot oven) 25 minutes.

Filled Peanut Butter Cookies will just about melt in the mouth. Make up a great batch to fill the cooky jar — enough to go 'round and 'round.

½ cup peanut butter
¾ cup brown sugar
1 egg (2½ tablespoons sifted dried egg mixed with 2½ tablespoons water)
⅛ cup milk (1½ tablespoons dry milk plus ½ cup water)
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon vanilla
2¼ cups sifted flour

Raisin filling (see below)

Cream shortening, peanut butter, and sugar. Add egg, milk, and vanilla and mix well. Sift dry ingredients together and stir into the first mixture. Chill. Roll dough thin. Cut rounds with a biscuit or cooky cutter, drop a spoonful of raisin filling in center of one round and cover with another. Press edges together. Bake on ungreased baking sheet at 425°F. (hot oven) 10 minutes. Makes 50 2-inch cookies.

"Do you think they'll ever invent plastic grass?"

Teen-Appealing Snacks To Aid Young Figure

The next time the gang gathers for an after-school snack, an evening gabfest or even homework, sooner or later teen-talk will turn to food and curves (not geometry, either) and what to do about them.

In any given group of teen-age girls, perhaps 20-30% will suffer an overabundance of curves and 15-20% will be moaning they don't have enough. In other words, as many as half the kids, according to the University of California publication "Nutritional Status, U. S. A.," may have poundage problems, either too much or too little.

If you happen to be hostess at a teen-agers' gathering, you can serve up some appetizing and really nutritious snacks to the weight watchers and weight gainers, and perhaps give them some hints that will help tip the scales in their favor—permanently.

The problem of weight control is not just a matter of eating too much or too little—but of what you eat and when. Calorie counting alone isn't going to put weight on or take it off. Both the heavy and the light-weight need three regular meals a day, sensibly planned to meet their particular food needs.

And when it comes to snacks, there is a special problem. A good many of the foods you may nibble at between meals contain what dietitians call "empty calories." That is, they may have lots of carbohydrates which you do need for energy and will merely add fat if you have too many, but be totally lacking in the body-building nutrients such as protein, vitamins and minerals. A lump of sugar or a piece of candy would be about as full of calories and without nutritive value as you can get. Nuts or peanut butter, on the other hand, supply energy and are a fine source of protein which you need to help build body tissues and muscle and to fight infection.

These snacks with "empty calories" include candy, potato chips, popcorn, doughnuts, sweet rolls, whipped cream desserts and the like. They'll put on pounds if you're fat, fill you up and keep you from eating the things you need if you're thin and perhaps add skin and dental troubles to your figure problems.

Certainly underweight girls need more of certain kinds of food, the ones with excess avoidupois less. Both, of course, need balanced diets supplying an abundance of vitamins and nutrients.

The underweight girl, whose problem often doesn't get as much attention as that of ner opposite number, particularly needs her vitamins once a day because when food supply is inadequate, the body's reserves of these vital substances are depleted. Whatever your weight problem, you should rely on a doctor to check your physical condition, rule out the rare possibility of illness, and set up a diet program for your particular figure-control needs.

The underweight and the overweight girl have surprisingly common problems. One may skip breakfast or lunch because she is just too tired to eat, the other in the mistaken notion it will take off pounds. At snack time, both face a problem.

Surprisingly enough, whipping up satisfying snacks for your your friends with weight problems is not difficult, can be fun, and may even teach them valuable lessons in good eating.

For example: You can serve homemade strawberry milk shakes to the entire gang and help the dieter take weight off and the underweight friend put them on. For the overweight, beat a cup of skim milk and a teaspoon of strawberry flavoring in a blender. For those trying trying to fill out a skinny frame, use whole milk and a scoop of ice cream with the flavoring—and serve in cold, frosty glasses. Both types can enjoy grilled cheese sandwiches: add bacon for the underweight and a slice of tomato for the overweight; make the latter's open-faced with one slice of bread and leave off the butter.

Here are some other snacks that may be helpful:

Lightweights—ginger ale ice cream soda (1 glass ginger ale and a scoop of vanilla ice cream, served with colored straws); peanut butter and honey sandwiches on whole wheat bread; chocolate pudding and cream (save time with an instant mix); bananas and cream with raisins for added iron.

Heavyweights—ginger ale soda (preferably the low calorie kind) made with 1 cup ginger ale, 4 tablespoons skim milk powder, 1 teaspoon sugar and a few drops of vanilla, whipped in a blender; fresh mint fruit cup (sliced oranges and grapefruit and a few sprigs of mint); orange ice; half a cantaloupe or melon balls.

elegant late-day styles. The

All-weather cotton coats for autumn range from sturdy, country sportswear designs to the most silhouette roams from easy, relaxed shaping for great coats to narrow lines and neat styling on Chesterfields. In between are the demi-fit in front coats with wide-swinging cape backs.

Moorefield PTA Endorses Plan For TV Study

Mrs. Dwight Kessel Elected President

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Mrs. Dwight Kessel was elected president of the Moorefield Graded Parent Teachers Association at the first meeting of the year Monday night. Mrs. Kessel will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of the Rev. Charles Roth who was elected president last year and later moved from Moorefield. Miss Ella Bergdoll, vice-president, presided over the meeting until the new president was elected. Devotions were led by the Rev. Robert Woodworth.

Mrs. R. J. Bean, membership-chairman, announced a drive for members would be held this week. A small prize will be given to the room at the school in which the most parents join PTA.

The principal of the school, Raymond Sindy, announced the gift of a movie projector donated by Pierce Pre-Cooked Foods, Inc., and expressed the appreciation of the teachers and students to Wendell Hester, president of the firm. He also spoke on the educational television programs that will be broadcast from Richmond, Va., over the facilities of Television Station WSVA, Harrisonburg, Va., beginning October 2. He highly recommended the programs and stated that arrangements are in progress to install at least three television sets in classrooms at the school.

A unanimous vote was recorded to make a recommendation to the Hardy County Board of Education to change the Christmas vacation scheduled for the schools to the week between Christmas and New Year's instead of the present schedule of a split vacation. It was also pointed out that the Board of Education is considering changing the school hours back to Eastern Standard Time effective October 2. Members registered approval of this action and made a recommendation to be presented to the County Court and Town of Moorefield to change the time.

School Presented Flag

Keyser VFW Auxiliary Takes Flags To Limestone

KEYSER, W. Va.—The Auxiliary Unit to Nancy Hanks Post No. 3518, Veterans of Foreign Wars, recently presented new flags, literature and a record for the students' record player, when they visited Limestone School.

The literature and record were sent by Gov. W. W. Barron of West Virginia and the Auxiliary provided the flags.

Part of the patriotic program of the VFW and its Auxiliary, the flags were presented by Lillian Kimble, Auxiliary president, to Miss Mary Strother, school principal. The flags include three hanging type for use in the separate classrooms, and a large flag for the outside flag pole. Immediately after the presentations, a flag raising ceremony was attended by the students and visitors. Mrs. Kimble and Wanda Avers, senior vice president of the Auxiliary raised the outside flag for the first time.

During the visit, Faye Edwards, treasurer, presented the school with a donation for sponsorship of a student. This is an annual project of the VFW Auxiliary.

Julia M. Ward Is Honored By Pythian Sisters

FROSTBURG — Mrs. Julia M. Ward, secretary of Calanthe Temple No. 3, Pythian Sisters, was elected to the office of grand treasurer of the Grand Temple of Maryland, at the annual statewide meeting held recently in Hagerstown.

Mrs. Ward has served as secretary of her own Temple for five years and was district deputy grand chief in 1959-60, having received this appointment from Mrs. Pearl Neilson, then the presiding grand chief. Mrs. Neilson was chairman this year of the Altruistic work, and Mrs. Edna M. Engle, supreme temple pianist, served as a member of the mileage and per diem committee and grand temple pianist.

Installation ceremonies were held last Saturday evening and those attending from here were Mesdames Juanita T. Hendley, and Eleanor Hopkins, past district grand deputies; Ruth Berkenbaugh, past grand trustee; Dora Davis, Margarette Arnold, Angela Hanna, Eva McKenzie, Grace Thomas, Past Chiefs; Edith Schultz, Marie Patterson, and Helen Bosley and Elmer Ward, Joseph Davis and Daniel Arnold.

Mrs. Arnold received the Grand Temple Degree which entitles her to be a member of the Grand Temple, at the conclusion of the installation Mrs. Ward was the recipient of many gifts.

McCoole PTA First Meeting Is Tonight

Place Emphasis On Membership

McCOOLE — The McCoole Parent-Teacher Association will hold its first meeting of the year today at 7:30 p.m. at the school, according to Mrs. Virginia Flick, president.

No formal program will be presented at this meeting so that parents may meet in the rooms with the teachers following a short business session in the school auditorium. The purpose of the meeting with the teachers is to help the parents gain a better understanding of the purposes, aims, goals, and activities of the particular room and school of which their children are a part. During the session parents will have an opportunity to discuss the school program and to ask questions about the work their children will be doing this year.

After the business session and classroom visitations, refreshments will be served in the school lunch room by the Homeroom Mothers of Miss Mary Biggs, fourth grade teacher.

Mrs. Flick said that membership is being stressed this year. An effort is being made by the group to greatly increase the number of members over last year's total. A short play, entitled "Who, Me?", will be given by a group of parents in the auditorium in conjunction with the membership drive.

Committee chairmen for the year were also announced by Mrs. Flick. They include, ways and means — Mrs. Bernice Tichnell; hospitality — Mrs. Rosemarie Bennett; membership — Mrs. Mary Ward; publicity — Mrs. Winnie Herbert; health — Mrs. Emma Vincent; safety — Harry Fike; program — Mrs. Frances Riggleman; budget — Donald Ravenscroft; and music — Alyce Wills.

Officers of the organization in addition to Mrs. Flick are, Mrs. Mae Blizzard, first vice-president; Donald Ravenscroft, second vice-president; Mrs. Margaret Kelly, treasurer; and Mrs. Wilma Ravenscroft, secretary.

Piedmont Councilmen Extend DST

PIEDMONT — Piedmont will continue on Daylight Saving Time until Sunday, October 29 at 2 a.m.

A resolution was unanimously passed at the regular meeting of Mayor Donald M. Mellor and the Town Council Monday evening extending Daylight Saving Time to conform with Allegany County, Maryland.

The Police Department report was read by Mayor Mellor. It included 53 complaints, nine investigations, three auto accidents, 12 warnings, two reckless driving, one intoxication; one non-support and two assault and battery cases.

The report also requested two pairs of winter trousers for the regular patrolmen and one pair for the extra officer. Council ordered that prices be obtained for them from local merchants.

The cost for keeping prisoners for the town of Piedmont in Mineral County Jail at Keyser, was raised from $1 to $2 per day according to a letter received from the Mineral County Court. The mayor stated even with the advanced rate the fee was reasonable.

GAINER E. BRYAN JR.

Baptist Editor Speaks Sunday At Frostburg

Gainer E. Bryan Jr., editor of The Maryland Baptist, will be guest speaker at the morning worship service at Welsh Memorial Baptist Church, Frostburg, Sunday.

Mr. Bryan is a native of Georgia and a graduate of Mercer University with a major in journalism. He served in World War II as an officer in the U.S. Naval Reserve. He saw action on a destroyer in the invasion of Iwo Jima and Okinawa. Later he served as a reporter on The Augusta Chronicle, Augusta, Ga. In January, 1950, he joined the staff of the Baptist Sunday School board, where he served five years in Sunday School and editorial work.

He resigned in September, 1954, and entered Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Louisville, Ky., to prepare for his career in Christian journalism. He earned the Bachelor of Divinity Degree in 1957, although a layman. He became editor of The Maryland Baptist in November, 1957. He has served as a string correspondent for leading daily newspapers covering religious events.

He is the author of a pamphlet on church-state relations entitled, "Bradfordville 10 Years Later." In the summer of 1960 Mr. Bryan attended the Baptist World Alliance Congress in Rio de Janeiro and toured Southern Baptist mission fields in Latin America.

The Maryland Baptist, publication of the Baptist Convention of Maryland, is a semi-monthly, slick - paper newsmagazine, appearing twice each month. In February 1960, it was rated second best professionally of 19 Southern Baptist state papers in a survey made by Prof. Roland E. Wolseley of the Syracuse University School of Journalism.

Keyser PTA Presents Gifts Honoring Former President, Retiring Principal

KEYSER — The Keyser Parent Teacher Association, at its first meeting of the school year, made two presentations, honoring two people who have served the elementary school.

A portable electric organ was presented to the school in honor of Mrs. Graham Pifer, past president of the PTA, and a donation was made to the Mineral County Library in honor of the school's retired principal, J. P. Judy.

Funds for the presentations were raised at a rummage sale and an independent campaign among friends of the school, by a group headed by Mrs. Earl Hess and Mrs. Richard Pulliam, co-chairman. Working at the sale were Mrs. Chester Jenkins, Mrs. Wesley Neville and Mrs. Carl Thesis.

Raymond Lee of Piedmont, the Mineral County director of Civil Defense, was guest speaker at the meeting. About 75 persons heard him discuss the need for a community campaign to fully organize for Civil Defense, the importance of constructing or locating fall-out shelters, and how the school should be prepared for emergencies arising from a nuclear attack.

School Given Organ

The Keyser Parent Teacher Association presented a portable electric organ to the Keyser Elementary School in honor of Mrs. Graham Pifer, past president, for her service to the school and PTA during the past two years. Left to right are Mr. Wimer, principal; J. P. Judy, retired principal, and Mrs. Graham Pifer. A donation to the Mineral County Library was also presented to Mr. Judy in honor of his long service to the school.

Grange Sponsors Benefits

HYNDMAN, Pa. — The Hyndman Grange met Friday with Howard Burkett, grange master presiding. The Junior Grange met simultaneously with Larry Hite in charge. Both organizations elected officers and made plans for an installation on October 20. The next regular meeting, however, will be October 6.

At the grange meeting, it was agreed that the project for a new meeting house for the Junior Grange will be expedited. Trustees and the building committee recommended that an addition to the present grange building be constructed at the rear for use of the Juniors. Work is expected to begin soon.

Colleen Hite told the membership that her committee plans several fund raising projects to help finance the new structure. On Saturday, a festival will be held at the hall and on October 11 and 12 a rummage sale and baked goods sale will be sponsored.

The Juvenile Grange planned a Halloween party and discussed a float for the Halloween parade. Folk games were played following a discussion on the JG gourd project, and the evening concluded with a birthday party honoring Larry Hite, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hite who furnished refreshments.

Prior to the two meetings a covered dish supper was served, and Kate Shaffer, home economics chairman, gave information on home shelters and discussed holding home extension meetings in the area.

Observes Birthday

KEYSER—More than 50 of his friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Charles Fleek, West Piedmont Street, last Friday evening to honor him on his birthday with a covered dish supper given by Mrs. Annie Shoemaker.

Republican Club Receives Award

KEYSER — The Mineral County Republican Women's Club has been awarded the Stubblefield Bowl as the outstanding club in the state of West Virginia for the past year.

Presentation was made at a luncheon meeting Tuesday to Mrs. Mary McCoy, president, by Mrs. John Williams, daughter of the late Mrs. Stubblefield, who served as Republican National Committeewoman for 15 years prior to her death in 1959.

The bowl, awarded for the first time this year, is given to the club that scores highest in political activity, increase in membership, program, publicity, scrapbook, civic projects, and subscriptions to the national federation magazine.

Accompanying Mrs. McCoy to the meeting were Mrs. George Petras, Keyser; Mrs. Nellie Owens, 2nd District director, Kearneysville; and Mrs. Harold J. Snyder, of Charleston, formerly of Keyser.

W.Va. Hospitals Complying With Safety Orders

Tucker General Now Certified

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—State Fire Marshal B. E. Wright said Wednesday he was "very gratified" by the cooperation his office has received from hospitals which had not been certified for 1961-62 licenses due to existing fire hazards.

Twenty-eight hospitals throughout the state were not certified for the fiscal year starting July 1. However, Wright said about a dozen of them have started corrective action that has resulted in their being given conditional certification.

He said the latest certified include Mountain State, St. Francis and Shepherd, all of Charleston; Guyan Valley, Logan; City Hospital, Martinsburg; Wheeling Hospital; Tucker County General, Parsons, and Hinton Hospital.

Wright said 22 nursing homes not certified for licenses were responding about as well as the hospitals.

Apparently no public schools in the state are in immediate jeopardy of facing closure action by Wright's office for violation of fire safety regulations.

Wright said results of inspections of all schools have been forwarded to the State Department of Education. He said no closure actions were recommended.

"Any such action would come after subsequent inspections to be made in the near future" he said. He said he did not feel any counties were recalcitrant in attempting to correct certain hazards.

"If we do find that any school or county should deliberately resist corrective measures," he said, "we will of course take whatever action is necessary."

He declined to identify any schools or counties where fire hazards were cited in recent inspections.

COLLECTION DAY TODAY

2,670 Tickets Sold For Dinner To Honor Tawes

BALTIMORE (AP) — Approximately 2,670 tickets at $100 each have been sold, for the testimonial dinner honoring Gov. Tawes, Harry W. Rodgers 3d, dinner committee treasurer, reported Wednesday.

The dinner will be held Thursday night and a half hour of the program will be televised in Baltimore, Washington, Salisbury and Cumberland.

Speakers will include Gov. Tawes, Rep. Daniel B. Brewster, D-Md., Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan, Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and toastmaster Thomas D'Alesandro Jr.

Tax Collections Total $131,443.55

The August collections at the Allegany County tax office at the Court House totalled $131,443.55, said William B. Orndorff, tax collector.

He said the overall figure includes $100,750.15 in county real estate and personal property taxes; $30,553.37 corporation taxes and $140 trailer arrival tax.

150th Armored Officers Plan Call-Up Work

W.Va. Guard Unit Leaves Oct. 15

SOUTH CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Top officers of the West Virginia National Guard's 150th Armored Cavalry Regiment started preliminary planning Wednesday toward getting the big unit ready for active federal duty Oct. 15.

A hurriedly - called day - long conference was held at regimental headquarters here with Col. Daniel Holliday of Beckley, commander of the 150th presiding.

Holliday said he had no official word as to what duty station the regiment would be assigned, but rumors had it either in Kentucky or Virginia.

The initial conference was denoted to the "vast amount of administrative work that must be done in a call-up like this," Holliday said.

Included were plans for medical examinations of unit members, located in 20 West Virginia cities and towns, and preliminary decisions on what officers will go on active duty immediately to handle administrative work.

"We're also checking into various regulations that govern the situation and determine what has to be done," the commander said.

The call-up involved an estimated 3,000 members of the 150th, plus a much smaller number of three Army Reserve units in Huntington and Parkersburg.

St. Peter's PTA Board To Meet

WESTERNPORT—A meeting of the executive board of St. Peter's Parent - Teacher Association will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the school, according to Mrs. Margaret Metz, president.

All of the officers are asked to attend to make plans for the year.

Adult Class Reorganizes

ECKHART—The Young Adults Class of Eckhart Baptist Church held a reorganizational meeting recently at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Catherine Catherman.

The meeting was opened with the reading of the Scriptures and prayer. It was decided not to have a president but to take turns presenting the devotions. Geraldine Felker was elected treasurer, and Eleanor Miller, secretary. Plans were made to have a wiener roast in October. Games were played and refreshments served.

Teachers Attend Training Meet

Five members of the Allegany County Teachers Association attended the 13th annual Leadership Training Institute sponsored jointly by the National Education Association and the Maryland State Teachers Association at Camp Louise last weekend.

Representing the local public relations committee were Miss Clara Boettner, chairman; Mrs. Dorothea W. Rowe and Miss Peggy Sterbutzel. Miss Sterbutzel was also on the state staff at camp. Max Lloyd and Jack Elliott, co-chairman of Allegany County Leadership Training Institute, also attended.

The program included discussion groups and lectures designed to assist local leaders in performance of their duties in the coming year.

The institute closed with a discussion of the MSTA program. Recommendations made will be offered for the consideration of delegates to the state association convention in Baltimore October 19-21.

Maryland 4-H Honors Teacher

BLOOMINGTON — Mrs. Charlotte Barnard, principal of the Bloomington School was presented with a twenty year pin recently at the University of Maryland at College Park.

The clover leaf pin set with a diamond was given her by the Maryland 4-H Foundation in recognition as 20 years service as a 4-H club leader.

Maris Blasts No. 59 As Yanks Beat Baltimore To Clinch Pennant

Terry Hurls Four-Hitter For 4-2 Win

Roger Fails To Tie Ruth Mark; Yanks Cop 26th AL Flag

By GEORGE BOWEN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Roger Maris hit his 59th home run Wednesday night, in the third inning, but missed No. 60 when a long drive to right went foul in the seventh and failed to tie Babe Ruth's 60-homer record while the New York Yankees clinched their 26th American League pennant.

Battling to tie or surpass Ruth's 1927 record — the greatest of all baseball prizes — Maris tagged Milt Pappas' 2-1 pitch in the third inning for No. 59, the line drive carrying into the stands over the 380-foot marker.

Yankees Take Lead

The homer sent the Yankees into a 2-0 lead and the New Yorkers never relinquished the edge as they beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 and clinched their 11th pennant in the last 13 years, their first under rookie Manager Ralph Houk.

Maris came up for the second time after homer No. 59 in the seventh inning and took a called strike from reliver Dick Hall before sending a long shot to right that had the crowd on its feet. The shot hooked foul by about 25 feet.

Hall then got Maris to hit a towering fly to deep right center that chased right fielder Earl Robinson back before he camped under it for the out, 20 feet short of the wall.

Taps Slow Roller

In his final appearance, Maris faced knuckleballing reliver Hoyt Wilhelm. Maris fouled one back, then started to check his swing on the second swing. But he couldn't hold back and topped a soft roller along the first base line. Wilhelm picked it up, jogged over to first and made the tag on Maris himself.

That ended Maris' chances to tie or surpass Ruth's record under the official 154-decision limit imposed by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick. Maris, who lined to right in the first inning before stirring the crowd with his 59th homer, has eight games left on the American League's expanded schedule in which to surpass Ruth's total.

Mrs. Roger Maris On Verge Of Tears, Sees Husband Fail

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—A disappointed Mrs. Roger Maris, on the verge of tears, watched her slugging husband fail Wednesday night in his bid to break Babe Ruth's home run record.

"Rog," said 26-year-old Patricia Maris in partial disgust as the New York Yankee outfielder grounded out in the ninth inning of the Yanks' game with the Baltimore Orioles, "why did you swing at that one?"

Patricia watched Maris trot out to his center field position after the ground out and her eyes were wet. But she quickly broke into a smile and quipped: "There's always next year."

Mrs. Maris watched the game on television in the studios of station KMBC.

Colvard Thinks WVU Can Finish With 6-4

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia still has a chance of winding up this football season with a 6-4 record in spite of last week's opening upset at the hands of Richmond.

Who says so? Why, none other than the Mountaineers' sophomore quarterback, Freddy Colvard.

"I think we could have a 6-4 record yet this season," said Colvard. "We feel we can knock off a couple of the big teams.

Browns Confident

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Browns prepared Wednesday for their home opener against the surprising St. Louis Cardinals this weekend, confident they are a good football team and a strong championship contender.

With one game under their belts, the Browns hoped history would repeat itself in 1961. A year ago, the Philadelphia Eagles were drubbed by the Browns and went on to win the championship.

Gabriel Murphy Acts To Prevent Salary Increases

WASHINGTON (UPI) —H. Gabriel Murphy, owner of more than 40 per cent of the Minneapolis Twins stock, Wednesday filed suit in federal court asking that the club's officers and director be prevented from doubling their salaries.

Murphy said he is informed that salaries of President Calvin Griffith and four other directors and members of his family decided on the salary boost earlier this year without informing the stockholders. He claimed that this in effect is a dividend of $101,500 to the five, without the corporation having to pay any dividend to minority stockholders.

He asked the court to declare the salary increases improper, and to require the defendants to declare a dividend of at least $5.35 per share.

Americas Cup Players Named

NEW YORK (UPI) —The United States Golf Association (USGA) Wednesday invited U.S. Amateur champion Jack Nicklaus and six other amateur golfers to represent the United States in the sixth Americas Cup golf match to be played Oct. 21 and 22 at Monterey City, Mexico.

Invited along with Nicklaus were Deane Beman, Charles Coe, Robert Gardner, William Hyndman III, Charles Smith and H. Dudley Wysong.

The Americas Cup match is a biennial competition among teams from Canada, Mexico and the U.S.

Nicklaus, Beaman, Coe and Hyndman were members of the U.S. team that won last year at Ottawa, Canada, with 21½ points to 20 by Canada and 12½ by Mexico.

Cardinals Lose, 6-1

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Don Ferrarese pitched the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals and dropped the Redbirds into a fourth-place tie with the Milwaukee Braves.

Ruben Amaro and Clay Dalrymple led the Phil attack on starter and loser Ernie Broglio, each driving in a pair of runs.

Athletics Top Cleveland, 4-2

Del Greco's Homer In Ninth Decides

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Bobby Del Greco's two-run homer in the ninth inning gave the Kansas City Athletics a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Wednesday night in the final home game of the season for the Tribe.

A pair of singles—by Dick Howser and Jay Hankins—plus a wild pitch by Batty Latman gave the Athletics a run in the third inning.

The Indians matched that in the fourth as Woodie Held walked, Johnny Romano singled and Del Greco, after fielding the ball, threw it into the dugout allowing Held to score.

Post's Home Run Beats Bucs, 3-2

CINCINNATI (AP)—Wally Post lashed a towering home run over the left field screen with one on in the eighth Wednesday night and the Cincinnati Reds took another step toward a National League pennant with a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The payoff wallop came after Face (6-11) had walked Vada Pinson to start the inning. Face went into the game in the eighth to relieve starter Joe Gibbon.

The victory was the Reds' 34th by one run as against 14 losses.

Machen Purse Attached By IRS

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—The Internal Revenue Service in Syracuse, N.Y., has attached the $7,500 purse earned by Portland heavyweight Eddie Machen in his knockout win over Mike De John there last Saturday, an IRS spokesman said.

Arthur G. Erickson, local director of the IRS, said liens were filed for some $6,000 in taxes in 1959 and about $1,500 in 1960.

Schilling Equals Fielding Record, Boston Loses, 3-1

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ray Herbert scattered seven hits Wednesday night to beat the Boston Red Sox, 3-1, for the first time since he joined the Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox scored single runs in three innings, the first on three successive singles, the next on Al Smith's double and J. C. Martin's single, and the third on singles by Camilo Carreon, Luis Aparicio and Jim Landis.

It was Herbert's 11th victory of the season. Red Sox starter Gene Conley took his 13th loss, allowing nine hits in 6 2-3 innings.

Red Sox second baseman Chuck Schilling completed the 154th game of the season with only seven errors, tying a major league record set by Jackie Robinson with the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1951. The American League record is nine.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC) announced Wednesday that the Universities of Buffalo, Connecticut and Massachusetts have been ranked as major college football teams beginning with this season.

Game Rescheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Wednesday night's game between the Washington Senators and Minnesota Twins was postponed because of rain and will be played as part of a doubleheader at Minneapolis-St. Paul Saturday.

Evans And Timmerman To Start For WVU

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia Coach Gene Corum Wednesday said it's questionable whether end Ken Herock and second string quarterback John Burnison would be able to play in the Vanderbilt game Saturday.

Keys To Return

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Buddy Parker Wednesday reinstated halfback Brady Keys who has been sidelined since Aug. 16.

Porky Oliver Dies Of Cancer

Golf Pro Aided Disease Research

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver, former Ryder Cup player and a leading professional golfer for 20 years, died Wednesday, a victim of cancer. He was 45.

Oliver left the pro golf circuit more than a year ago. He underwent two operations and was told by his doctor at that time he had maybe four to six months to live.

Oliver, one of the best-liked competitors in golf, refused to allow the "curse", as he called it, to sap his spirit or his faith. He made his life useful by aiding cancer research.

The father of four—they range from 9 to 18—helped raise about $20,000 to fight the disease. He did it through various testimonials and other affairs in his honor.

Recently he was appointed honorary captain of the 1961 U.S. Ryder Cup squad which plays in England in October. Oliver played in three Ryder Cup matches — 1947, 1951 and 1953. Each year the U.S. won.

DIES—Ed (Porky) Oliver, 45, leading professional golfer for 20 years, died yesterday at Wilmington, Del., a victim of cancer. Oliver was one of the best liked competitors in golf. He played on three winning U.S. Ryder Cup teams.

Somewhat Improved

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Race driver A.J. Shepherd, 34, Mitchell, remained somewhat improved Wednesday at Methodist hospital where he was under treatment for ciritical injuries suffered last Saturday.

Bellamy Selected

NEW YORK (UPI)—Walt Bellamy, 6 foot, 10½ inch center from the University of Indiana, Wednesday was the first player selected by coach Bones McKinney for his college all stars who will play the New York Knickerbockers on Oct. 13 in the 10th annual program for the free milk fund for babies.

Tigers Top Angels, 6-3

Norm Cash Hits 38th Home Run

DETROIT (AP)—Chico Fernandez' bases-loaded double featured a four-run tie-breaking rally in the seventh inning Wednesday and lifted the Detroit Tigers to a 6-3 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels.

Ron Kline, sold to Detroit five weeks ago by the Angels, limited his former teammates to seven hits. The right-hander squared his record at 8-8, five of his victories coming since he joined the Tigers.

The Tigers went ahead 2-0 on Norm Cash's 38th home run with Rocky Colavito on base in the fourth. The Angels tied it on George Thomas' two-run homer in the sixth.

19 Pacers Vie For Brown Jug

$70,000 Classic Slated For Today

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Some of the favorites have been ousted by injuries, but the biggest field in its 16-year history goes after the $70,000 Little Brown Jug Thursday.

The 3-year-old, pacing classic, scheduled for at least three heats over the Delaware County Fairgrounds half-mile track starting at 2 p.m. (EST), attracted 19 starters.

Ten go in the first division, nine in the second, and the top five in each return for a third ride. Each heat divides 30 per cent of the $70,069.14 purse among its five leaders.

Should the winner of one of the first two heats triumph in the third, he's the champion. If a third horse hits the wire first in the runoff, the three heat winners come back for an extra jaunt to decide the victor—who also gets the remaining 10 per cent of the purse.

Johnny Simpson's Adios Cleo and Ted Hanover, and Bobby Camper's Adios Don are not among the 16 colts and 3 fillies in the field—taking some of the glamor off the big pace.

WINS FORTY & EIGHT PURSE—Richard Reid, left, past grand chef de gare of Voiture No. 164, presents a U. S. Savings Bond to to Trainer Kenneth W. McLaughlin after Ournav won the Forty & Eight Purse, yesterday's feature race at Fairgo, by eight lengths over Inchcliffe Castle. Ournav covered the route of one mile and a sixteenth in 1:50 2/5 seconds and in the role of favorite returned $7 for $2. In the photo, left to right: Reid, Philmore Fleming, police and fire commissioner; McLaughlin, Edward J. Rider, state chairman of the 40 & 8 Child Welfare Committee, and Jockey Donald Teague, who was aboard the winner. The Forty & Eight (40 men and eight horses, indicating the number of men or horses that could be put in a box car) is the fun making branch of the American Legion. Often referred to as the "Box Car Society," the 40 & 8 was organized in France at the conclusion of the First World War.

Dallas Second In NFL Offense

Browns Lead Total Yards With 432

NEW YORK (AP) — The comparatively new and suddenly brash Dallas Cowboys may cause trouble in the National Football League in more ways than one.

The Pittsburgh Steelers, for one, would say Coach Tom Landry's charges already have caused trouble. Not only did the Cowboys launch their second NFL season Sunday by shooting down the Steelers 27-24 but came mighty close to grabbing the lead in team offense.

The San Francisco 49ers, No. 3 in team offense, yielded only 135 yards to the Washington Redskins in posting a 35-3 triumph and emerged from the league's inaugural clashes as tops in team defense. They held Redskin runners to a mere 37 yards. San Francisco picked up 399 yards on offense.

Vets Will Honor Team At Dinner

A dinner in honor of the Veterans of Foreign Wars baseball team of the High School Rec League will be held today at 6:30 p.m., at the V.F.W. Home.

Players Eligible For World Series Are Named

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball commissioner Ford Frick Wednesday announced the names of New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds players who are eligible to appear in the World Series.

Only players who were on the team's official playing roster on Sept. 1 are eligible for the series.

The Yankees made one move back on Aug. 31 to beat that deadline — taking pitcher Bob Turley off the disabled list and making room for him on the roster by making Earl Torgeson a coach. Turley, hero of the Yankees' series triumph in 1958, has appeared in relief in only one game this month.

New York Yankees:

Manager, Ralph Houk; coaches Frank Crosetti, Jim Hegan, Wally Moses, Johnny Sain, and Earl Torgeson; trainers, Gus Mauch and Joseph Soares. Players —Luis Arroyo, Yogi Berra, John Blanchard, Cletis Boyer, Jim Coates, Bob Cerv, Truman Clevenger, Joe DeMasetri, Bud Daley, Al Downing, Whitey Ford, Billy Gardner, Bob Hale, Elston Howard, Tony Kubek, Hector Lopez, Mickey Mantle, Roger Maris, Hal Renif Bobby Richardson, Rollie Sheldon, Bill Skowron, Bill Stafford, Ralph Terry, and Bob Turley.

Cincinnati Reds:

TITANS' AL DOROW IS LEADING PASSER IN AFL

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Al Dorow, New York Titan quarterback, and Lionel Taylor, Denver Bronco end, both have consecutive touchdown streaks working in the American Football League.

Dorow, by throwing four scoring passes against Buffalo last Sunday, not only entrenched himself further as the AFL's No. 1 passer but also extended his string of consecutive games for touchdown passes to 15.

Taylor caught one six-point toss in his team's Saturday night loss to Denver to run his string to six straight games, but slipped into second place among the AFL receivers with a total of 15 passes caught to 16 for New York's Don Maynard.

Dorow marked up 47 of a possible 54 points in the league's efficiency rating system by leading the circuit in number of completions (39), yards gained (464), touchdown passes (6) and completion percentage (.557).

Ed Songin of Boston ranked second with 40 points and Jack Kemp of San Diego third with 37½. Songin and Kemp have gone through two games without an interception to lead in that department, while George Blanda of Houston leads in yards gained per completion (9.71).

Among the ground gainers, San Diego's Paul Lowe moved to the top with 72 yards in last Sunday's rout of Oakland for a two-game total of 172 yards. Teammate Bo Roberson was second with 146 yards, while Buffalo's Elbert Dubenion boasted the top average (29.5 yards) with 118 yards in only four trips.

Other leaders included Paul Maguire of San Diego with a 43.4-yard punting average; Junior Wren of New York with three interceptions; Frank Jackson of Dallas with a 33-yard kickoff return average, and Vernon Valdez of Buffalo with a 30-yard punt return mark.

Ournav Cops 40 & 8 Purse, Favorites Win Five Fairgo Races

Betting Tops For Weekday Despite Rain

Handle Is $149,590, McKee Boosts Lead, Double Payoff $47

David A. Livingston's Ournav, a 9-year-old gelding, trained by Kenneth W. McLaughlin and ridden by the veteran saddlesmith Donald Teague, completed the parade of favorites at Fairgo yesterday by winning the Forty and Eight Purse in the feature event on the ninth day of the Cumberland Fair Association's 35th race meeting.

It was a rainy Wednesday but that did not dampen the enthusiasm of the bettors who pushed a total of $149,590 through the mutuel windows for the best weekday of the current session. The previous weekday high was $147,625 on Monday. A total of 3,747 patrons braved the elements to witness the eight-race program on which favorites finished first in five events. Thirty-five per cent of the first choices (26 in 73 races) have won thus far at this meeting.

The big surprise yesterday was the size of the crowd and the increase in wagering in spite of the fact that rain fell before the races and throughout the program. Perfect racing weather had prevailed during the previous eight days of the meeting.

Wins By Eight Lengths

Ournav finished eight lengths in front of Inchcliffe Castle, a previous winner here, in the main event, covering the route of one mile and a sixteenth in 1:50 2/5. The winner was a $7 for $2 shot and his trainer was presented a $25 U.S. Savings Bond by Richard Reid, past grand chef de gare of Voiture 164, of the Forty and Eight Society. Third money went to Alaskan Night.

Prior to Ournav's victory, the form players were rewarded in four other tests. Morris Shapiro's Pricewise, Jr., with Joseph Minento up, copped the opener and returned $5.20, Foreign Aid paid the shortest price of the meeting ($3.60) in capturing the third and Bathyscaph ($4.40) finished in front in the fourth.

Chalk players were rewarded for the fourth time during the afternoon when Buddy's Flower ($5.60) whipped Sagitate by two lengths in the sixth race.

Jockey DePalo Tossed

Jockey Thomas DePalo was tossed by Grand Duchess after the bay filly had finished fourth in the sixth event. He was taken to Memorial Hospital and after examination was released. The accident occurred when Grand Duchess stumbled.

Yesterday's winning daily double combination was Pricewise, Jr., and Tumbles Tot and those who purchased tickets on the 2-7 combination received $47. The double pool was $19,936.

Last Reprise, owned by C. Lamar Creswell, Jr., returned $14.20 after winning the fifth and those who backed Angelo Delloso's Bird Land to win the final received $14 for each $2 played on the nose.

McKee Increases Lead

Charley McKee, the winningest rider at the meeting went three up on Lawrence Reynolds by booting home a pair of winners — Bathyscaph and Bird Land — to up his total for the session to 14. Reynolds failed to crash the winners circle and now trails with a total of eleven firsts.

Reginald Scott, William S. Moxley and Robert Girardin saddled winners to go into a deadlock for first place in the trainers' race with four firsts each. Nine were knotted for the lead with three winners each before yesterday's program.

Handle Is $1,332,897

At the close of business yesterday Bob Littleton, director of wagering, reported a handle of $1,332,897 for the first nine days of racing at the 12-day meeting.

Two Contests Set In Softball Meet At Penn Avenue

Two second round contests will be on tap tonight in the Western Maryland Softball Tournament at Penn Avenue field when the Knights of Columbus collide with the Loyal Order of Moose at 6 o'clock and the Sports Shoppe meets Post Playground at 7:30 p. m.

Both contests are in the loser's bracket and the losing teams will be through in the double elimination tournament. The winners will advance into the quarter-finals.

Rain washed out yesterday's slate and the two scheduled games were reset for Sunday afternoon.

1:00—Barrelville Old Germans vs. Greenpoint Old Exports.

2:30—Redmen vs. Hyndman Vets

4:00—Kelco Credit Union vs. Veterans of Foreign Wars

5:30—Wiley Ford vs. winner Sports Shoppe-Post Playground.

DAILY DOUBLE—Pricewise Jr. (2) and Tumbles Tot (7) paid $47.00.
Tumbles Tot, unhurried to the far turn, responded quickly when urged, swung to the outside for the drive and closed in a bold rush to be up in the last strides. Big Missile disposed of Bill's Melody in the early stretch, held on well but could not withstand the winner's rush. Bill's Melody shook off Giotto along the backstretch, drew clear and held on well to the stretch, then faltered. Blenheim Boy rallied mildly. Giotto set the early pace and tired. Over Town showed nothing. Jinks Junior was through early.

Bow Season Opens Oct. 14

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The bow and arrow hunting season for both deer and bear in West Virginia this year will run from Oct. 14 to Dec. 31, the Department of Natural Resources announced Wednesday.

Only one deer and one adult bear may be taken by either bow or gun this year.

For bear hunters, the department suggested the Cranberry wildlife management area in Pocahontas County, Kumbrabow State Forest, Cheat and Otter Creek Wildlife Management areas in Randolph County and the Canaan wildlife management area in Tucker County.

Terps Workout Cut By Rainfall

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—The Universiry of Maryland football team had its practice cut short Wednesday because of rain.

Braves Snap Loss Streak, Defeat San Francisco, 7-4

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Hank Aaron's bases-loaded single for two runs in the seventh broke a 3-3 tie and started Milwaukee on the way to a 7-4 victory over San Francisco Wednesday.

The win snapped the Braves' eight-game losing streak, broke a Giant winning string of five and gave Milwaukee's Lew Burdette his 17th victory against 10 losses. Mike McCormick lost his 16th against 12 victories.

Yardley Joins Los Angeles Jets

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—George Yardley, the first man in professional basketball to score more than 2,000 points in a single season, has come out of retirement to sign with the Los Angeles Jets of the new American Basketball League.

The Jets announced Yardley's signing at a press conference. The balding veteran of seven years in the National Basketball Association retired from the game following the 1959-60 season to devote full time to his off-season job as a manufacturers representative for heavy Industrial equipment in Santa Ana, Calif.

Penn State, Maryland, Army Selected To Win

Rice, Syracuse Also Favored In Weekend Contests

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—The emphasis on the college football schedule this weekend is on intersectional games.

Georgia Tech 10, Southern California 7: This Friday night feature could be decided by a Billy Lothridge field goal.

Penn State 19, Navy 13: The Penn Staters could be the best in the East.

Virginia 8, William and Mary 0: The week's upset special.

Mississippi 18, Arkansas 10: Ole Miss has a econd team which could win some major conferences.

UCLA 14, Air Force 0: The airmen not so potent without Richie Mayo.

Advised Not To Throw

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates reported Wednesday that pitcher Vernon Law's right arm and shoulder are not completely healed.

Dr. Joseph Finegold and Dr. Albert G. Ferguson Jr. advised that it would be unwise for the right-hander to throw at the present time.

Yogi Berra of the Yankees has been in 11 World Series. Babe Ruth played in 10.

Lawrence Peter (Yogi) Berra holds the record for total World Series games played—68.

ABOUT THIS QUESTION: Those wonderful, unpredictable children who crowd the country roads and city streets traveling to and from school won't be reading this. It's up to you, the drivers, to be considerate. It's up to you, the parents, to warn children to look both ways at crossings, and to walk on the left side of the road. Every precaution is worth the trouble.

Stocks Stage Recovery After Two-Day Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks staged a substantial rebound on persistent afternoon buying Wednesday, reversing a two-session slump.

Volume on the comeback was limited by the Jewish religious holiday which cut into Wall Street attendance. Sales totaled 2,700,000 shares against 3,260,000 in the prior session and were the smallest since July 24.

Brokers felt that the recovery was prompted largely by technical factors — namely recent sharp setbacks — and was aided by the final settlement of national issues by General Motors and the United Auto Workers.

A narrow total of 1,235 issues were traded — 26 less than Tuesday and 44 less than the same day last week. Of these, 604 advanced, 19 to new highs, and 396 declined, 52 to new lows.

The inclusive Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a gain of 0.28 indicating that around $1.8 billion was annexed to paper values during the course of trading.

Dow-Jones 30 industrials closed at 707.32 up 4.78. Prominent within the average was Du Pont which jumped 4¾ on the expectation that the Senate will follow the House in passing a bill to reduce the tax burden in the company's sale of General Motorrs stock. GM rose ¾ to 48⅛.

Cards of Thanks

We desire to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved father, James H. Alexander. We especially wish to thank Rev. McClain, those who sent cards and flowers, the pallbearers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral. To all others who in any manner rendered assistance, we are indeed grateful.

THE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING FOR DISCUSSION OF THE ENACTMENT OF AN INTERIM ZONING ORDINANCE FOR ALLEGANY COUNTY, MARYLAND

In accordance with the provisions of Section 21 (d) of Article 66 B of the Annotated Code of Maryland (1957 Edition), titled, "Zoning and Planning", notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the County Commissioners of Allegany County, in the County Commissioners' Meeting Room at the Court House on Washington Street, Cumberland, Maryland, on October 10, 1961, at 7:30 p. m. (EDST) for the purpose of a discussion of the enactment of an Interim Zoning Ordinance for Allegany County.

The provisions of this Ordinance shall apply to all lands, properties, buildings and other structures in Allegany County, Maryland, outside the incorporated municipalities, and outside the LaVale Zoning District; provided that such provisions shall be extended to apply to the territory within any incorporated municipality or the LaVale Zoning District whenever the legislative body of such municipality or district may indicate by resolution its intention to participate in this Ordinance, as provided by law.

Copies of the proposed Ordinance may be obtained from the office of the Planning Commission, basement floor of the Court House Building, Washington Street, Cumberland, Maryland.

Adv.—N-T-Sept. 20-21.

Police Reports Often Have Comic Touch

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—Routine police reports often have unintentional lighter moments.

The report told the story of a retired trapper, a new homestead family of seven and a little log cabin that once stood near Craggie Creek.

The cabin's owner, Gust Emil Gustafson of Wasilla, reported to police that the cabin he built more than 40 years ago was missing. The site is northeast of Wasilla, which is about 50 miles north of Anchorage.

Investigation by state troopers revealed that the cabin had been dismantled and set up again, not far away in the same Willow Creek area. It was now serving a family that had been in the area about a month.

The homesteader, Bryan Butler, 39, said he did not know the cabin belonged to anyone and that he took the logs to shelter his wife and five children before winter. They had been living in a tent, he said, explaining that he did not have work or money.

Gustafson agreed to accept $100 for the cabin and told Butler he could take a year to pay. The old-timer also asked police to drop charges against Butler.

Man Killed By Train At Gorman

Jacob Dilgard, 82, Hit By Locomotive, Knocked Into Stream

An 82-year-old Gormania, W. Va., man, on his way home with groceries, was killed yesterday afternoon when he was struck by a Western Maryland freight train on a railroad trestle at Gorman and knocked into a nearby stream.

The victim was identifief as Jacob Dilgard. Authorities said he sustained a crushed chest, fractured pelvis and other injuries in the accident at 1:50 p. m.

He was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. James Feaster, medical examiner of Garrett County. The body was taken to the Minnich Funeral Home in Oakland.

The man was struck by a 71-car freight train with a two-unit diesel locomotive en route from Ridgeley to Elkins, W. Va.

Didn't Hear Whistle

S. L. Barker of Ridgeley, engineer of the freight train, told authorities he noticed the man walking along the trestle, and blew the train whistle.

Mr. Dilgard, who was reported to have had defective hearing, kept on walking. The engineer said he blew the whistle a second time and then applied the emergency brakes. But it was too late, as the man had walked into the path of the locomotive.

The impact knocked him off the side of the trestle and into a stream about 15 feet below.

The train was delayed for about an hour during the ensuing investigation, according to a railroad spokesman, who said there was no noticeable delay in other rail traffic.

Was On Way Home

The engineer told authorities he was traveling about 25 miles an hour at the time of the fatal accident. The victim was reported to have been on his way home with groceries and apparently was unaware of the approaching train.

Garrett County Sheriff James Frantz and Cpl. Robert D. Henline of the State Police investigated.

Other crewmen on the train were R. E. Scott, Ridgeley, fireman; W. H. Griffin, of near Ridgeley, conductor; R. L. McBee, Ridgeley flagmen, and J. H. Fishell, 214 Oak Street, city, brakeman.

Gorman is located in Garrett County about 12 miles southeast of Oakland. Gormania is just across the Potomac River in Grant County, W. Va.

Native Of Germany

Mr. Dilgard was born in Stuttgart, Germany, a son of the late Chris and Magdlen Dilgard. He came to this country when he was 18 years old and resided in Philadelphia before moving to Gorman, where he had lived the past 47 years. His wife, Otilia (Creigher) Dilgard, died in 1952.

A retired sawmill operator, he was a member of the Knights of Pythias, and of the Presbyterian Church, Gormania, W. Va.; and was a volunteer fireman in Gorman.

Surviving are three sons, Jack E. and G. K. Dilgard, Staten Island, N.Y., and Roman K. Dilgard, Rockville; three daughters, Mrs. Estella Bosley, Gormania; Mrs. Magdlen Ohles, New York City, and Miss Ann Dilgard, Oakland, 16 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Friends will be received at the funeral home from 7 until 9 p.m. today and from 2 until 4 and 7 until 9 p.m. tomorrow.

Gets Sixth Swim Certificate

Youngster Makes Record In Water Safety Program

A 12-year-old local girl established a new record for the Allegany Chapter, American Red Cross summer swim program by earning certificates in six separate swimming classes, according to Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary and Robert E. Pence, water safety chairman.

During the summer program just completed, Sylvia Beall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Raymond Beall, 20 Race Street, received certificates for completing classes in beginner, advanced beginner, intermediate, swimmer, junior lifesaving and water safety, and advanced swimmer.

The seventh-grade Penn Avenue School student had had some previous training at YMCA and in the playground swim program sponsored by the City Recreation Department.

Her instructors were Miss Martha Miller, beginner, Mrs. Serena Winer, advanced beginner, intermediate, swimmer and advanced swimmer and Louise Jackson, junior lifesaving and water safety. The Y and playground swim programs were also taught by qualified Red Cross instructors.

Legislative Unit To Visit Here During October

The Legislative Council of Maryland's General Assembly is planning a trip to Western Maryland next month.

W. A. C. Irwin, district forester, received a copy of a letter from Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the Department of Forests and Parks, saying that the council plans a tentative trip to Allegany and Garrett counties the weekend of October 13.

They plan to stay at the Fort Cumberland Hotel the night of the 13th and on the following day plan to travel into nearby Garrett County, where they will probably visit Deep Creek Lake, Deep Creek State Park and Swallow Falls.

Another copy of the letter was forwarded to Dr. Carl N. Everstine, director of the Department of Legislative Reference.

Hundreds of members from 65 churches in the area between Woodstock, Va., and Hagerstown and Berryville, Va., and Piedmont, W. Va. are expected to attend.

Heading the program and speaking in the college auditorium at 7:30 p. m. will be the moderator of the General Assembly of Presbyterian Church, U. S., Dr. Wallace M. Alston, president of Agness Scott College, Atlantic, Ga.

The program will begin at 3 p. m. with a devotion led by Dr. D. K. Allen, president of Davis and Elkins College. Following this, each age group, including juniors, pioneers, seniors and adults, will have its own program.

Adults will be divided into ten special interest groups. Among the group leaders are Rev. Robert B. Woodworth, Presbytery chairman stewardship, pastor at Moorefield, and Dr. Allen.

The program is sponsored by the Presbytery of Winchester and has been planned and executed by a steering committtee named by the Presbytery's moderator, Rev. Daniel D. Sulc, Bethany Church, north of Martinsburg. Judge David E. Cuppett, Petersburg, W. Va is chairman. Area committee members are John D. MacLeod, Keyser, Martin M. Mansperger, Romney, and Ben Rogers, Hancock.

National Guard Unit Inspected

Lt. Col. Benjamin F. Dean, G-3 (training officer) of the 29th Infantry Division, Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, was in Cumberland last night inspecting Company C, First Medium Tank Battalion, 115th Armor.

He was accompanied on the inspection tour by Col. Lanier D. Buford, senior Army advisor for the division.

Their primary concern during the inspection was the training status of the unit which is commanded by Lt. Norman D. Messman.

Yesterday afternoon the quarterly inspection by the Army advisors was made by Capt. Oscar J. Neilson, local unit advisor, who was assisted by Sgt. Dale W. Rizer, sergeant advisor.

They were accompanied by Col. Robert Matlick, battalion commander, Maj. Paul B. Lord, staff assistant, and other battalion officers.

The inspection team checked on supply, administration, training records and the maintenance of equipment and vehicles.

Old Mines May Be Used For Fallout Areas

Mt. Savage VFW To Discuss Plan

The recently-formed civil defense committee of Old Rail Post 6025, Veterans of Foreign Wars in Mt. Savage, will meet today at 8 p.m. to discuss the possibility of using abandoned area mines as fallout shelters.

Recently Gov. Tawes asked civil defense authorities to investigate possible sites for public fallout shelters to protect Maryland citizens against nuclear attack, and suggested abandoned coal mines be utilized.

Frank T. Powers, Frostburg, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, and Harry Jones, Mt. Savage, federal district mine inspector, also will attend tonight's meeting and will explain the possibility of using the abandoned coal and clay mines as fallout shelters.

Gov. Tawes said he felt much could be done at a governmental level to provide fallout shelters of a size such as to accommodate large numbers of citizens.

Charles G. Smith, deputy civil defense director for Allegany County, will be at the meeting tonight and will outline the civil defense program and instruct the group on the formation of first aid classes and other projects.

Members of the VFW civil defense committee include Mr. Jones, Carroll Carney, a teacher at Beall High School; Michael Reagan, chief of the Mt. Savage Volunteer Fire Company; Martin Jones, a mathematician at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, and Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant state service officer for the Maryland Veterans Commission, and chairman of the VFW civil defense committee.

Immediate Trial Is Being Sought

Two McCoole area youths are seeking an immediate trial in Allegany County Circuit Court in the theft of a rocking chair and record player from a dwelling in McCoole earlier this year.

In a criminal information filed yesterday in Circuit Court, John P. Pearce and Gerald E. Butts, are charged with breaking and entering, petty larceny, receiving stolen goods and malicious destruction of property.

The two youths, according to the information, entered the dwelling of John W. Dove on May 31 this year. They were reported to have taken a rocking chair valued at $20 and a record player valued at $10.

The information was filed by the state's attorney's office. The two youths waived their right to trial by jury and are seeking the immediate trial.

Three Gas Firm Workers To Get Service Citation

Luncheon Today At Country Club

Three veteran gas workers will be cited for 25 years service at luncheon ceremonies today at Cumberland Country Club.

They are Miss Wanda V. Gerard of Cumberland, Donald M. Duff of LaVale and Joseph E. Dersin of Ridgeley.

They will join the Quarter Century Clubs of their respective employers, Columbia Gas of Maryland and Manufacturers Light & Heat Company, sister firms with the Columbia Gas System.

All three will receive engraved gold watches and gold service pins in recognition of their experience and loyalty.

She joined Columbia's predecessor firm, Cumberland & Allegheny Gas Company, as a clerk in the distribution department here, and has been promoted several times.

Miss Gerard resides with her mother, Mrs. Nettie J. Gerard, at 514 Prince George Street and attends Emmanuel Methodist Church, where she is active in children's work.

Mr. Duff is a station engineer at Manufacturers' State Line, Pa., compressor station. He joined the firm as an oiler at Brownsville, Pa., and has been promoted and transferred several times.

He and his wife, Clara Mae, live at 913 National Highway, LaVale. The couple has two sons and a daughter. The Duffs also have four grandchildren.

Mr. Dersin started as a laborer here with C. & A. He has been promoted through collector, meter reader and street serviceman. He now serves the area as a regulatorman.

He and his wife, Mildred, live at Ridgeley RFD 1 and have eight children and seven grandchildren. The family attends Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

Each year at this time the two gas companies honor their new 25-year veterans and present new service pins to 30, 35, 40 or 45-year employes. Both firms have over a sixth of their people with 25 or more years of experience.

Hardy County Boy Dies In Car Crash

Caudy E. Gray, 16, Thrown From Auto, Killed Instantly

A 16-year-old Hardy County, W. Va., youth was killed instantly yesterday evening in a spectacular one-car accident about four miles south of Rio.

Authorities said Caudy Eugene Gray was killed instantly when he was thrown from the vehicle, which went out of control on County Route Three.

Trooper William Thompson said young Gray died of a broken neck. The trooper said the youth was driving alone in the direction of Route 55 on a wet highway.

The victim, who was a student at Wardensville High School, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Caudy G. Gray who live on a farm east of Wardensville.

No Time Limit On His Honesty

Yesterday the store received a letter from the man who wrote:

"I would be very much pleased if you would send me a statement of what I owe and I will start paying you some each month as I can."
